CAMPAIGN BOILS DOWN TO PRO OR ANTI ROOSEVELT

NEW DEAL WILL BE REAL ISSUE IN NOVEMBER

Party Leaders Plan To Take Stump For Next Six Weeks

By Cecil B. Dickson
Associated Press Staff Writer

Washington, Sept. 29.—(AP)—With 38 days to go before the American electorate writes the answer, the main issues in the national political cauldron today had boiled down to a direct "for or against" Franklin D. Roosevelt's New Deal.

The question of the continuance of the Roosevelt reign is sharply etched across the nation in contests between Democratic and old guard Republican candidates for congress and high state offices. Only in the campaigns of some independent and progressive Republicans is the issue expanding to include support of a majority of the Roosevelt recovery moves.

Wide Open Campaigns

The now wide-open campaigns of both major parties have brought rapid developments in the past week. Even these will be overshadowed in the next six as more national party leaders take the stump throughout the country.

Democrats are striving for the return of a two-thirds majority in the house, now that they are assured, as a result of primaries, of control of the senate on the next congress. Republicans, on the other hand, are blasting criticisms at the "New Deal" in a terrific effort to capture enough house seats to block a repetition of what they contend was the log rolling of legislation in the last congress.

With all of the intra-party contests concluded except in Rhode Island, candidates for 430 house and 33 senate seats and 34 governorships now are lined up for the race to the November 8 finish wire.

New York Democrats and Republicans topped off the intra-party battles this week and their nominees are pledged for and against the New Deal, respectively.

Many other developments in the political arena attracted nation-wide attention during the week. Among them were:

The Democratic national committee distributed among administration candidates a bulky guidebook, directing them to concentrate on New Deal accomplishments and projected additions to the recovery program.

The Republican senatorial and congressional committee issued two pamphlets attacking the fiscal and farm policies of the Roosevelt administration.

At Portland, Ore., former President Herbert Hoover urged voluntary re-

Daylight Saving Ends For Thirty Million Persons

By The Associated Press

Time got back to normal for an estimated 30,000,000 persons Sunday at 2 a. m. as daylight saving for 1934 officially came to an end.

In millions of homes, millions of clocks and watches were turned back an hour, and father time regained the hour lost last spring on April 29.

Daylight saving was effective mainly in the urban east and middlewest and in certain sections of Canada and the north Atlantic coastal states. In New York state alone, 36 cities and 43 villages were on daylight time.

The return to standard time has caused numerous transportation companies to revise their schedules. Many railroads operated on standard time, but set departures and arrivals back an hour.

2 CONDEMNED SLAYERS SHOOT THEIR WAY OUT

Were Being Led From Cells To Confer With Attorney

Richmond, Va., Sept. 29 — (AP) — Shooting their way to freedom in a sensational escape from jail, two notorious gangsters, under sentence of death for murder, today wounded three officers and tonight were being sought over a widespread area.

Walter Legenza and Robert Mais, the criminals, suddenly drew pistols as they were being led from their cells in the Richmond city jail to confer with an attorney.

They shot Warden W. A. Moore and Deputy Sergeant John A. Delph and then ran through the front reception room, firing wildly.

Police officer W. A. Toots, rushing to the jail entrance from the outside, received a bullet through his chest as the gangsters forced their way thru the jail door.

Steal Truck

Racing through an alley next to the jail, Legenza and Mais held up a mail truck at Fourteenth Street and forced Joe Richardson and H. D. Moon, negro drivers, out at the point of a pistol. They drove the truck several blocks to where E. T. Carpenter was parking a sedan, took it after dragging him from the seat, and drove at a rapid pace and were last seen speeding north on Twentieth Street.

Every available city and state policeman was summoned to join in the hunt for the two men, who were awaiting transfer to the death cell in the state penitentiary for their part in the holdup and slaying of E. M. Huband, federal reserve bank mail driver, here last March.

Legenza, who boasted at his trial that he cracked safes from New York to New Orleans, and Mais, now suffering from six bullet wounds fired into his back by Baltimore police, had been guarded with the greatest of care, police fearing "outside aid." The manner in which they obtained guns was a complete mystery as no one had been allowed to see them except Mais' mother.

Panic reigned among the prisoners in the jail as the two gangsters began firing, but officers said none of them attempted to escape. Unarmed jail attaches dropped to the floor or ran, while Charles W. Moss, attorney for the two men and a member of the Virginia legislature, ducked behind furniture in the room at the other side of the hall.

Moss said he had come to the jail to confer with the two gangsters about an appeal to the Virginia supreme court of appeals.

The wounds of Warden Moore and Deputy Sergeant Selph were not serious.

MUSTAPHA KEMAL PLANS MARRIAGE

Vienna, Sept. 29—(AP)—The possibility that Turkey's 57-year-old dictator, Mustapha Kemal Pasha, may choose a bride from among the four marriageable sisters of King Zog of Albania was under discussion here today.

Belgrade dispatches to Austrian newspapers said announcement of an engagement might be made during the expected visit of King Zog to Ankara shortly.

The militant, 38-year-old King of Albania once declared publicly that Balkan tradition would not allow him to marry until he, as the eldest son of the ruling house, had successfully married off all his sisters. Two of six are now married.

Kemal Pasha, the man who emancipated Turkish women, is said to have expressed a desire to re-marry. He was divorced in 1925 by his own decree from the young and beautiful Latife Hanoum, daughter of a wealthy merchant of Smyrna.

INSULL'S TRIAL WILL BE OPENED NEXT TUESDAY

Court Room Has Been Remodelled For Famous Case

Chicago, Sept. 29.—(AP)—The customary preparations for a major trial were completed today in the federal court room of Federal Judge James A. Wilkerson.

There Tuesday, Samuel Insull, the English immigrant who rose from a petty bookkeeper to the pinnacle of financial and social heights, along with 16 others once prominent in business and finanical circles, goes on trial on mail fraud charges in connection with one of the largest business collapses in American history.

So great is the interest in the trial, so voluminous the records, it was necessary to put carpenters to work for nearly a week, practically remodeling the court room.

A giant press table is now available for the scores of writers who will cover the trial for press associations and newspapers; from a nearby room telegraph instruments, telephones and typewriters will facilitate the speeding of the testimony to the world; a huge shelf, 24 feet long, 14 high, has been built to accommodate the 2,500 books and documents that may become part of the record.

Not since the trial of Al Capone before the same judge have such preparations been made.

The mail fraud case is based on government allegations the defendants conspired to sell 113 million dollars in stock and 30 million dollars in gold notes, and to borrow 20 million from banks in manipulation of Corporation Securities Company, the now bankrupt two billion dollar Insull holding company, in efforts to stave off the crash of the Insull empire.

Presenting the government's case is the youthful federal prosecutor, Dwight Green, a holdover from the Republican administration. He will be aided by Assistant United States Attorney General Forest Harness, First Assistant United States Prosecutor Leo J. Hassenaur. The government expects to consume about five weeks presenting its case, offering testimony from some 200 witnesses. The defense indicated it would take about the same time.

The appearance Tuesday of the white-haired, 74 year old Insull culminates a fight of the government and state authorities started in 1932 to bring him before a bar of justice.

On April 15 of that year a receiver was named for Middlewest Utilities, a keystone of Insull financing pyramid. On June 7 Insull resigned as receiver for his companies and six days later went to Paris.

October 4 brought a state indictment for Insull and his brother, Martin, charging embezzlement, thereby starting his long fight against extradition to this country—a move not accomplished until long after his in-

"YELLOW KID" IS AGAIN ARRESTED BY DETECTIVES

Chicago Landscaper Takes Detectives to Joliet Instead of Cash

Chicago, Sept. 29.—(AP)—The "Yellow Kid" is slipping.

There was a time when Joseph Weil could have sold toll privileges on the Michigan avenue bridge for the price (cash in advance) of a lot in the loop.

Today, however, the one-time master of confidence men was accused of being down in the $2,500 class—and he didn't even get by with it.

Otto Clauss, of the Clauss landscaping firm of Chicago, went to Joliet today to meet "Rudy Ruehl" and ostensibly to give him $2,500 in a proposition that would net them a million dollars before the sun set, because Mr. "Ruehl," who had spoken to him about large contracts for landscaping race tracks and even a home for "aged jockeys," had a tip hot from the saddle at Lincoln fields.

Clauss compromised and took three Chicago detectives instead of $2,500. The detectives recognized "Ruehl" as their old friend the "Yellow Kid," and discarding his explanation that Clauss had misunderstood the proposition, brought him to Chicago police headquarters.

Now they are looking for Fred (the Deacon) Buckminster, Weil's old team mate, suspecting that the "Col Bradley" who was introduced to Clauss may have something in common with "The Deacon."

The story Clauss told the detectives was this:

He met "Mr. Ruehl" at the World's Fair. "Ruehl" presented himself as a racetrack promoter, and when he learned Clauss was a landscaper, he was overjoyed, because he was even then looking for a landscaper who could handle some big contracts.

In the course of time "Ruehl" introduced his new friend to "Col Bradley," and the three of them at various times met other important persons who had to do with racetracks; in fact, they visited several racetracks and discussed landscaping plans.

"Ruehl" even suggested he might let contract for landscaping at a home for aged jockeys, which he had in mind, but this idea left Clauss cold and the race track magnate presented a new one.

Industrial Leaders In New NIRA

S. Clay Williams

Arthur D. Whiteside

Two members of the new National Industrial Recovery Board named by President Roosevelt who have been prominent in New Deal activities are S. Clay Williams and Arthur D. Whiteside. Williams, president of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, has been the industrial member of the National Labor Board and head of the Commerce Department advisory and planning council. Whiteside, president of Dun & Bradstreet and a long-time friend of Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, has served as an NRA division administrator and with the War Industries Board.

President Roosevelt Will Give New Accounting in His Address Over Radio Tonight

Washington, Sept. 29 —(AP)— President Roosevelt drafted today a new accounting of his administration, designed among other things to stop business and political critics of the NRA and send that reshaken agency off to a flying start.

In what is intended as a man to man chat with the people by radio tomorrow night he will speak in this fashion for the first time since last June when he left for a Hawaiian vacation. It will be delivered in radically altered circumstances, both for the president and many of his hearers.

The three month interval has brought new and outspoken demands from business leaders for at least a new definition if not a shift in the present trend of administration policies—especially those vital ones dealing with government spending, budget balancing, currency stabilization and NRA control of business.

The same period has allowed President Roosevelt personally to tour the country and in the seclusion of his Hyde Park home to gather advice from leaders in all walks of life—industry, labor, agriculture and finance.

New Ideas

If organized business, through such outlets as the United States Chamber of Commerce, has become more determined in opposition to some phases of the new deal, it was believed the president too has returned to the White House with new ideas and firmer convictions for charting his recovery program.

That he should not hesitate to voice them tomorrow, bluntly replying to critics and to what he calls the grist of the "rumor mill," was the call of many of his followers. Also it was a generally expressed desire that the chief executive elaborate on the future of government code partnership with business.

The president himself set aside all possible time both today and tomorrow for writing his speech but gave no hint of the subject matter.

NRA was outstanding in speculation over the president's talk. Already the recovery unit is launched on an "evolutionary" road toward legislative permanency with a five-man board replacing Hugh S. Johnson. At the outset, it confronted the task of passing on one of the major issues between labor and industry—the shorter work week.

By October 15 the board headed by Clay Williams must advise Mr. Roosevelt on his temporarily stayed order cutting the cotton garment work week from 40 to 36 hours without a wage slash. Before that report goes in the American Federation of Labor renews its demand on record for a 30-hour week. The Chamber of Commerce and the National Association of Manufacturers undoubtedly will continue in active opposition to such a step.

The NRA board today named D. M. Nelson of the Industrial Advisory Board, Willard Hotchkiss, chairman of the General Code Authority, and Father Francis J. Haas, another member of the authority, as an impartial committee of three to investigate the cotton garment work week. They must return recommendations to the NRA board by October 10.

Another important step disclosed today at the recovery administration was NRA's willingness to let expire tonight minimum floor prices previously set on automobile tires.

The tire code authority yesterday requested an extension of these minimum prices but NRA refused, holding it was a last hour request which should have been made previously. Blue Eagle spokesmen said they declined to be rushed into a new order.

This decision on tires was not generally considered an indication of the new board's policy on price fixing. Should a price war result from the removal of minimum figures, it was said authoritively the board would reconsider the case.

FIRST DIVIDEND

Urbana, Ill., Sept. 29.—(AP)—A first dividend of 35 percent to creditors of the First National Bank of Urbana was announced tonight by Lewis G. Coonrod, receiver. The bank has been closed since the 1933 moratorium.

FAVORS EXPORT OF ALL SURPLUS U. S. LIVESTOCK

Charles Ewing Would Create National Corporation

Chicago, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Creation of a national corporation to buy surplus livestock for export purposes during depressed home markets was advocated today by Charles L. Ewing, Decatur, Ill., president of the National Livestock Marketing Association.

Ewing's address was broadcast over a national broadcasting network.

Use of foreign trade for a better adjustment between agriculture and industry toward national recovery was urged by Ewing who said the association is "opposed to a policy of national self-sufficiency."

Markets Lost

"We have lost more than 75 per cent in value of our foreign markets in livestock since the depression started," Ewing said. "We think the time has come when the United trade policy designed to use foreign trade policy designed to use forgeign markets to best balance the relationships of home industriy and agriculture."

After the use of parts of surpluses for relief, Ewing recommended creation of a national corporation to enter depressed markets ,and "secure for foreign exchange such amounts as might prevent gluts' 'on home markets.

"Instead of dealing with 3,000,000 livestock producers, hog and corn raisers on a plan of regimentation or license," he said, "it is far more practical and far less costly to deal with the commodity in question."

The marketing association he said, is a cooperative organization of 300,000 producers and feeders of hogs and sheep throughout the country represented on leading exchanges by cooperative sales agencies.

KEY TO FISCH SAFE DEPOSIT BOX IS FOUND

Sister of Dead Man Turns It Over To New York Detective

(Copyright, 1934, By The Associated Press.)

Leipzig, Germany, Sept. 29.—(AP)—A key presumably for a safe deposit box in New York used by Isidor Fisch, the man who Bruno Richard Hauptmann said gave him the Lindbergh ransom money, was obtained tonight by a detective Arthur Johnson of New York.

The key was surrendered to the detective by Hanna Fisch, sister of the late Isidor.

The officer also discovered a contract note belonging to Isidor and involving a transaction in Long Island real estate.

Johnson also was given Isidor's bank book, which showed that at the time of his death here Hauptmann's friend had less than $100 on deposit.

Among other objects taken by the New York officer were some letters written by Isidor when he was in the United States to his brother, Pinkus.

Johnson, pushing his researches in Germany energetically, was at the Leipzig police headquarters until 10 p. m. He questioned Mrs. Pinkus Fisch and Hanna Fisch separately.

"I am resuming my conferences with police at 11 a. m." Johnson told The Associated Press.

"I shall question Pinkus Fisch again. I cannot tell now how long I shall remain in Leipzig."

PLAN TO END UNEMPLOYMENT IS DESCRIBED

Employment Would Be Divided Among Workers

Washington, Sept. 29.—(AP)—An "American" plan to end unemployment and government aid of the needy was outlined today to a nation-wide conference of social workers.

The idea which leading industrialists have had under consideration several months was presented to the mobilization for human needs conference by Albert L. Deane, president of the General Motors holding corporation.

It is an unemployment insurance plan combining an anti-depression central fund like that of England with a form of NRA's hour limitations. Deane, now on leave from the corporation to serve as a deputy administrator of the housing administration, said the plan would involve no expense to the federal government except administration costs.

Describes Plan

He described it as follows:

A monthly survey would show the average weekly hours of employment feasible in each industry. Into this would be divided the total number of workers in the industry, whether employed or not.

The resulting weekly avearge would be used to determine what should be the average hours worked in each industry.

Employers would not be required to conform to this average, however. Those preferring a smaller number of employes would pay double time for hours worked over the average. The workers, however, would receive only time and a half. The other pay for extra hours would go into a national unemployment fund.

Not only would this fund finance work supervised by the government for those not employed in industry, Deane said, but it would furnish the money for cushioning a fall in production and the consequent reduction in purchasing power.

In the latter case a ten year average of weekly hours in each industry would be taken. For each hour the worker was employed less than this average, he would receive half pay.

Deane's plan was presented to the conference after President Roosevelt and Harry Hopkins, relief administrator, had indicated to the conference their concern over the number still on relief rolls.

Both Mr. Roosevelt and Hopkins said those not deserving aid should be removed from the rolls, and that some states must take a larger share of the burden.

What the technical committee studying social legislation to be presented at the next congress was considering was indicated to the conference by A. J. Altmeyer, assistant secretary of labor. Altmeyer rejected the view that the needy should "be fed as cheaply as possible." He advocated a system of social legislation which would embrace state insurance systems now existing.

850,000 YOUNG MEN ARE NOW IN C.C.C. CAMPS

Over Four Hundred Million Dollars Has Been Paid Workers

Washington, Sept. 29.—(AP)—The Civilian Conservation Corps totaled up its worksheet today and reported that 850,000 young men, war veterans and Indians had been given work at a cost of $443,000,000—about $522.50 apiece.

Robert Fechner, director of emergency conservation work, in a report to President Roosevelt covering the eighteen months of the CCC's life, gave these totals and conclusions:

1—Payment of $136,000,000 to boys in the forestry camps.

2—Remission of $113,000,000 of this amount to their families, averaging 300,000 in number, for relief purposes.

3—Expenditure of $273,500,000 for foodstuffs, clothing, transportation, automotive equipment, heavy machinery and tools.

4—Advancement of the nation's forestry program from five to fifteen years.

5—Addition of 5,000,000 acres to national forests and 67,000 acres to national parks.

Fechner reported that the president authorized enrolled strength of the camps, located in every state, was 369,838 and that beginning Monday an additional 100,000 would be enrolled to fill vacancies caused by discharges during the third six-months period which ends tomorrow.

"Men are now dropping out to accept private employment at the rate of about 10,000 per month," Fechner told the president, adding:

"The CCC movement has lightened state and local relief burdens by giving employment to men whose families were on relief roles. In almost all cases the jobs in the forest camps have gone to young men willing to allot five-sixths of their monthly cash allowance of $30 each directly to families or dependents. Up to September 1, cash allowances paid to the enrolled boys approximated $136,000,000. Of this amount, the enrolled men sent home approximately $112,000,000."

MYSTERY WOMAN WITNESS ENTERS LINDBERGH CASE

Letter Addressed To Mayor, "Soap Pistol," Ohio

Columbus, O., Sept. 29—(AP)—A letter addressed to "Mayor, Soap Pistol, Ohio," and bearing the return address of "Wooden Gun, Indiana," was delivered today to Mayor Henry Worley of Columbus.

The "soap pistol" related to the effort of Harry Pierpont and Charles Makley, Dillinger gangsters, to escape from Ohio penitentiary last Saturday by brandishing "pistols" whittled from soap. Makley was slain by guards who frustrated the break.

And the "Wooden Gun, Indiana," of course, could be none other than Crown Point, where the late John Dillinger escaped from jail by furnishing a "pistol" made of wood.

The anonymous letter was turned over to Warden Preston E. Thomas of the prison, who just a few hours before had received a warrant from the Ohio supreme court for the electrocution Oct. 17 of Pierpont. Pierpont was convicted of slaying Sheriff Jess Sarber in a jail break at Lima, O.

METHODISTS REJECT BEER PARTY REPORT

Story Claimed White House Piled With Beer Kegs

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 29—(AP)—A report attacking President and Mrs. Roosevelt because of an alleged hilarious "beer party" in the White House last Christmas season was rejected today by the New Jersey conference of the Methodist Episcopal church after lengthy debate.

The strong censure of the chief executive was contained in a report by the temperance board of the conference, presented by the Rev. L. L. Hand of Lambertville, its chairman.

Hardly had he completed the reading of the report when clergy and laymen rallied to the defense of the president.

Report Quotes Paper

The report quoted from what were assertedly newspaper accounts of the dance given for the younger Roosevelts and their friends—reports which Rev. George H. Neal, retired, of Thorofare, later said he understood were from a publication of the Women's Christian Temperance Union.

"How it hurts the whole make-up of a true citizen to read in bold headlines 'beer floods White House'," the report read, and continued its alleged quotation.

"The stately front hall was piled with kegs of beer as the dancers drank to satiety of the Rooseveltian beverage. In the conviviality of the occasion, all formalities were thrown overboard and hilarity reigned.'

"Such is the example which the chief executive and the First Lady set for the youth of the nation," the report concluded.

The substitute report, presented by State Senator J. Rusling Leap, of Salem, a lay delegate, was described by the Rev. George W. Ridout of Ventnor City as "a nice piece of rhetoric. We are trying to cover the monster with flowers." The substitute report was overwhelmingly adopted and pledged the conference "to absolute personal abstinence and to give adequate time and energy to a campaign of education toward the ultimate extinction of liquor."

HAUPTMANN CAN'T "SPRING" ALIBI

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 29.—(AP)—The state of New Jersey has a law which will prevent Bruno Richard Hauptmann, Lindbergh kidnaping suspect, from springing an alibi at the last moment—a piece of strategy which has gained freedom for many a man who otherwise might have been convicted.

The state legislature passed a supplement to the crimes act last April, providing that the defendant shall, on the demand of the prosecutor, be required to furnish a written bill of particulars "stating the specific place or places at which the defendant claims to have been at the time of the alleged offense, and the names and addresses of the witnesses upon whom he intends to rely to establish such alibi."

Only three other states in the union have such a law, the constitutionality of which has been upheld in the Illinois supreme court.

CONDITION IMPROVED

Crawfordsville, Ind., Sept. 29.—(AP)—The condition of former Governor W. L. Harding of Iowa, stricken with a heart attack here last night, was reported by physicians as considerable improved tonight. As a result of his illness the former Iowa governor's speaking tour has been cancelled.

PROSECUTOR DECLINES TO REVEAL NAME

Gives Very Important Information To Samuel Foley

By Francis A. Jamieson
Copyright, 1934,
By the Asociated Press

New York, Sept. 29.—(AP)—A mystery woman witness entered the Lindbergh kidnaping investigation tonight with the disclosure by district attorney Samuel J. Foley that she had given him "very important" information in the case of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, accused of extorting the $50,000 ransom.

Foley said he had questioned the woman privately and she had not appeared before the grand jury.

She came and went as quickly as Lindbergh and nobody knew anything about her," he said at a press conference .

The prosecutor declined to reveal the woman's name, where she came from, or when he had conducted the examination.

To a suggestion that he might be withholding this information to make her testimony at Hauptmann's trial a surprise, Foley replied:

"That is true, but it is not the principal reason. This is one thing that will not leak out."

"Mysterious Mary"

Foley's announcement started conjecture as to whether the woman might be the "mysterious Mary" whose picture the Daily News said was in Hauptmann's album of snapshots. The department of justice was said by the paper to be seeking the girl for questioning.

Discussing the case in general, Foley said:

"At present the only man against whom we have sufficient evidence to act in indictments is Hauptmann. We have no new leads. We have no information that might tend to identify anyone as an accomplice."

He had no idea, he said, as to where the unrecovered portion of the ransom money might be. Some of the bills were found in Hauptmann's garage.

Announcing that he was permitting two physicians to visit Hauptmann in his cell in the Bronx county jail, Foley said three alienists would give the prisoner a mental examination next week.

"I cannot report on that," he said in reply to a question as to whether doctors had discovered any physical disability in Hauptmann.

Dr. Thurston H. Dexter, family physician to Hauptmann's attorney, examined the prisoner late in the day.

James M. Fawcett, Hauptmann's counsel, declared the physician made only a physical examination and that no mental test was involved. He disclosed also that Dr. Dexter previously had examined Hauptmann last Tuesday.

"Our investigators have located a number of material witnesses in New York state," Fawcett said in discussing the case, "and they have made affidavits extremely helpful to the defendant."

Fawcett added he was studying the qualifications of well-known pathologists, hand-writing and finger-print experts and some of these would be called to testify at the trial.

He declined to answer questions regarding the proposed defense for Hauptmann although he had indicated previously that he would challenge federal hand-writing experts' identification of the ransom notes as having been written by Hauptmann.

Discussing the sanity tests proposed for Hauptmann, district attorney Foley said one psychiatrist would be chosen by him, a second by New Jersey authorities, and the third by James M. Fawcett, Hauptmann's counsel.

The district attorney then disclosed that Dr. John F. Condon has not identified anyone as the mysterious "John" to whom he handed the $50,000 ransom in small bills in a Bronx cemetery.

"Are you looking for such a man?" Foley was asked.

"No," he replied.

Joseph Bowman, who some officials said bore a resemblance to "John," was questioned in Chicago by police and federal agents. Chief of detectives John L. Sullivan announced there he could find nothing tangible to connect him with the case.

Bowman was seized last night with a woman who gave her name as Goldie Feris and who said she was his wife. Although no charges were placed against him, Bowman was held at the Chicago detective bureau after the questioning.

District attorney Foley, working at full speed with his staff and New Jersey authorities as the week-end started, made preliminary arangements for trying Hauptmann in the Bronx on the extortion charge.

Asked if he would go on trial before any extradition move by New Jersey authorities, Foley replied:

"I don't know whether he will."

Exit Daylight Saving

The daylight saving season of 1934 came to an end at 2 o'clock this morning. It is estimated that 30,000,000 people lived and worked this summer under the plan which moves the clock up one hour. The idea has been carried out in most of the larger cities, especialy in the east. Radio broadcasting schedules and some transportation time tables were affected.

But in the smaller places and on the farms thruout the country the clocks remained running on normal time. The change was not noticed, except by those who kept track of radio programs or had occasion to visit the larger centers of population.

It is claimed for the daylight saving system that it gives the worker more hours of summer sunshine. During the past summer, he would rather have had much less. The plan compels people who must be at work early to get up at sunrise, and go to bed when it is so hot they can't sleep. Because it is a city of hot nights, St. Louis turned down the plan, and its press declared the people needed the early morning hours for sleep, the only time they could obtain relief from the heat.

The restoration of standard time brings the entire country back to a uniform schedule. People who like to have things move along in a normal manner will welcome the return to the time schedule that the human race has been using for centuries and which was not thought bad at all until the world war turned everything topsy-turvy.

The Web of Dole

It is now plain that the United States is thoroly enmeshed in the web of a vast dole system. It is also plain that the country is looking anxiously for a way out. Relief Administrator Harry Hopkins declares he is "fed up," with states who have "passed the buck" to the federal government and refuse to bear their share of the relief burden. He says that if the states "don't give two whoops about the jobless, why should we sit up nights?"

President Roosevelt hints that the burden of relief is to be passed back to the states and local communities. Meanwhile the cost continues to mount. New York city is spending $17,000,000 per month. In Illinois the cost this winter is expected to be almost double. Part of this increase is due to the rise in the cost of supplies. But part is due to addition of families to the relief rolls.

The vast majority of the American people want to work for what they get. There are of course many who do not care and who have taken advantage of the relief disribution to get their share. But they are in the minority. Those who have been forced to accept relief because they could not find employment will return to work as soon as they have opportunity. The dole is not their choice.

The big problem before the nation today is this: to get rid of the dole system and return those supported by it to self-sustaining employment. Unless this is done, the nation stands a good chance to run so far in the red that the burden of taxes will crush those who remain in earning positions. All the energies and thought of the nation should be bent toward the one purpose: to rid itself of the dole system by restoring people to employment.

Some New Ideas

Two new ideas have come out of Europe recently. They are big ones, but they are designed to make things hum in the construction business on the other side of the Atlantic. Scientists propose the building near Paris of a tower 6,000 feet high for purposes of air defense. Others would build a bridge across the English channel, a distance of 24 miles, suspended by cables on three giant piers.

The air defense tower would carry three huge platforms, from which scores of airplanes could be launched ready for instant fighting with an enemy. It is argued that the time it takes planes to climb from the ground to a height where they can resist an enemy is too valuable to lose. The tower would also be armed with some 300 cannon, which would have an unusual range. The outstanding disadvantage lies in the fact that the tower would be a most attractive target for enemy artillery and air bombs.

As for the bridge across the channel that would swing on cables from piers at each end and in the middle of the channel. The cables would be 12 miles long, but they would be anchored to enormous masses of masonry, into which would be built hotels and other establishments useful at ports of entry. The middle pier would also be a gigantic structure, a vertiable city in the midst of the channel.

Whether or not these plans are ever carired out, the French and British scientists and engineers must be given credit for wanting to do things in a big way. They have at least imagination, and know how to dream. They would get a thrill out of making the Empire State building and Brooklyn bridge sink into insignificance.

From Devil's Island

Four men escaped from Devil's Island recently and rowed 500 miles in a leaky boat to Port of Spain, Trinidad. Articles which make fascinating reading picture this famous French penal colony as a place where punishment is mixed with ease and life runs the gaunt of both comedy and tragedy. The writer takes away much of the horror of the place by describing the apparent freedom of many of the convicts, who roam about, engaged in small business, and perform light labor about the colony.

But the escape of these four men is evidence that Devil's Island is still a "good place to be from," that it holds no attraction for the prisoners, many of whom know they can never leave it. Even after they serve their terms, they must remain in the colony, eking out an existence as best they may. These men preferred to row a boat 500 miles under a tropic sun and thru dangerous seas. They preferred to go without food for days and to risk the hazards of a leaking boat.

Our American prisoners might risk killing a guard to get their freedom, but it is hardly possible they would brave such discomfort to leave our steam-heated, electrically-lighted and sanitary bastiles.

Future of World's Fair Grounds

From the Bloomington Pantagraph

Probably the majority of the thousands of people who have visited the World's fair this year and last, have mentally wondered what would become of the vast area of made land on which the fair was located. The creation of that man-made area for the purpose of erecting thereon a collection of buildings for a one-year exposition which was stretched into two, was one of the many great accomplishments which the people of Chicago have achieved in their century of progress.

There is no hope nor expectation that the fair could be made a success for a third year; in fact, the attendance during its second season is substantially less than its first. Therefore the fair will be "closed forever" as the prominently displayed banners proclaim. Then will follow the wrecking of the buildings, the salvage of some portions of their structures, and the fair itself will become a memory.

But the land will remain. It must be put to some use, of course, and the questions as to what use is now being considered by many civic leaders and groups in Chicago. Its disposition is of concern to the people of Illinois outside Chicago, for interests of the city and state are interwoven in a score of ways.

It is to be first assured, according to newspaper interviews with leaders, that the water-front playground of the last two years, shall not become a commercialized amusement center, a midwest edition of Coney Island. It should be preserved, instead, as the scene of frequent if not continuous recreational enterprises for the whole people of the city and their neighbors scattered over many states, free of cost or at so nominal a price that they will be virtually free. An outdoor theater, a great musical center, athletic fields, are some of the units of this prospsective proposal by spokesmen for socialized recreation. There are on or near the grounds several permanent buildings which will attain added usefulness and attraction hereafter, because thousands of World's fair visitors first learned of their existence while at the fair. These include the Field museum, the Adler planetarium, the reproduction of Old Fort Dearborn, and possibly others.

With this interest so early displayed in the proper development and preservation of this splendid fair site, public opinion will compel a method which will prevent betrayal of public interest by the sale or lease by the controlling authorities by a scheme of cheap amusement enterprises.

VIEWS OF THE PRESS

FACE SAVING

One of The Herald's good and valued friends called the other day to suggest that a new psychology—or is it an old one becoming more pronounced—is abroad in the land.

He refererd to the old game once known as "passing the buck" but which he dignified with a new and perhaps more descriptive title: "face saving."

"Have you noticed," he queried, "how the occidental mind is more and more aping the oriental mind."

Then, he went on to explain that he had observed that "face saving" is becoming more and more a universal habit.

Solicitors will agree with that observation. Never a campaign that they do not learn new "face saving" tactics, as practiced by prospects for contributions to funds.

"Friend Wife" is one of the most frequently used foils in the "face saving" game. Then, of course, there's always "my partner," to fall back on, or the good old "budget" has to be consulted, as though a budget ever really worked unless it had some elasticity in it.

But, it's not only in the one field that "face saving" has attained the distinction of a fine art. Right now, the politicians are showing other "face savers" cards and spades, plus diamonds, hearts and clubs, in playing the game to a queen's taste.

Just as a suggestion, try to count how many times you encounter "face saving" answers to bothersome questions.

Can it be that the oriental mind is overcoming us?—Clinton Herald.

So live that the preacher who officiates at your funeral will not be unduly embarrased.—Olin Miller in the Thomaston (Ga.) Times.

The New Deal in Washington

NRA Looks Itself Over to Start Culling . . . Future in Thick Mist . . . Capital Calm After Munitions Uproar . . . Trade Commission Chief on Way to Long Service Mark.

By Willis Thornton
Journal-Courier Washington Corres.

Washington.—"Retain the good—throw out the bad!"

That was the administration promise and proposal when most of the present emergency legislation was taken on for trial a year or two ago. Now, as the winter session of Congress looms, there are frantic efforts on all sides to comb through the alphabetical agencies and see what can be thrown to the critical lions as bad, and what may be defended as undoubtedly good.

NRA, which is floundering badly, like a ship without either rudder or engines, is making such an examination of itself. The real NRA organization isn't the one that was made the other day (into legislative, executive, and judicial branches).

It's the one that's coming, the one to which advisers such as Moley, Swope, Johnson, Richberg, and possibly Baruch, have been quietly bending their energies.

It's the one that will come this winter, and you may be pretty sure that whatever is done before then is temporary.

Ickes Indicates Path

This ahead-view is pretty well revealed by Secretary Harold Ickes, who spent nearly a whole day testifying before the special House subcommittee which is investigating the oil industry.

Ickes made a plea for the petroleum code and its accomplishments, and concluded with a hope that "interest in oil conservation will not end with expiration of the code," but that it would be continued on a permanent basis, regardless of the ultimate fate of the code itself.

This House subcommittee, whose hearings in the capital are finished, and whose members are now enroute to Oklahoma City, Dallas, and Los Angeles to finish them up in the field, will report to the full Interstate and Foreign Commerce committee some time after it reorganizes in mid-January.

And the volume of testimony by technical experts, field workers and executives of the caliber of Ickes and Walter Teagle and W. S. Farish of Standard of New Jersey will be a comprehensive basis for a really permanent control policy for this industry.

All of which is about the best hunt that can be thrown out for the future of other great industries so far as permanent, long-time policies may be expected.

Thick Mist Over NRA

So far as the immediate future of NRA is concerned, the confusion and uncertainty which has reigned there for the last few weeks was simply augmented by the sudden, if not unexpected, resignation of the fiery Gen. Hugh Johnson.

When President Roosevelt himself says the future of NRA is to be an evolution, passengers on the ship may be pardoned a certain indefiniteness about the course.

Calm After Storm

With adjournment of the spectacular munitions hearing, the capital can scarcely reconcile itself to the quiet, staid, and academic atmosphere of the Federal Aviation Commission's effort to find out what makes aviation tick. Few spectators, and a quiet, almost sleepy atmosphere. . . . The Justice Department celebrates its triumphant part in unraveling the Lindbergh affair by beginning the long job of moving into its splendid new building on Pennsylvania Avenue. Its been in rented (and very unpretentious) quarters for years. . . . The National Recreation Association evidently believes in its own title. When it assembles here in early October it's going to create a new world record by not having any banquet. Old Washington banqueteers say nothing seems sacred in the precedent-breaking that's going on today.

Rates Service Stripes

Garland S. Ferguson, just starting a second seven-year term as Federal Trade Commissioner, should be one of the veterans of the federal service by the time he completes it. . . . Those cotton garment manufacturers, who flatly refused to comply with a presidential code order reducing hours and raising wages, are beginning to crack. Not all parts of the industry were pleased with the decision to defy the order. Shirtmakers were first to declare themselves for obeying it. . . .

Seed catalogs are losing their poetic qualities. Department of Agriculture experts note, in favor of facts. Some have gone so far as to list certain kinds of seeds as "of only fair or poor quality." . . .

Organized stonemasons protested when CCC men started building a stone wall along the Mt. Vernon Memorial Highway here, arguing that organized masons were the only people who ought to build stone walls. Park authorities deprecated their own work by saying they really weren't awfully good walls; just loose stones placed on top of one another, and not really masonry at all.

When You Say That, Smile!

Herbert Marshall Didn't, So He Nurses His Jaw

Herbert Marshall, English film actor, didn't remember that "The Virginian" once said, "When you say that, smile!". When Marshall said "that" or something that sounded like it to John Monk Saunders, writer, shown in top photo with his wife, Fay Wray, Marshall looked as he does in the center square. He should have smiled as he does in the circle, for Saunders' fist crashed on Marshall's jaw, the Englishman went down, and Gloria Swanson, right below, often seen with Marshall these days, was a horrified observer. It all happened at Director Ernest Lubitsch's Hollywood party for a group of film notables.

Mae West as "Belle of The Nineties"

Mae West at her best—that's the way her role in "Belle of the Nineties" is described. This very popular screen star appears in this latest film as the queen of burlesque in the old days, in a background of St. Louis and New Orleans life in the "nineties." "Belle of the Nineties" is appearing at the Fox-Illinois now for a four days showing. Featured with the glamorous star is Roger Pryor and John Mack Brown.

WILL ROGERS says:

To the Editor of The Journal-Courier

Washington, D. C.—Just been helping work on a new NRA board. Mr. Richberg is the head of it, replacing "Bobby." Three executives and two college professors take Hugh Johnsons place. In addition to an "exec" committee composed of the cabinet and the president himself.

It looked for awhile like they was going to have to call in the Marines to replace Johnson.

Everybody wonders what Johnson will do next? I think he will be sent to the Phillippines to replace the governor general, the army and the navy. And on days off supervise the Hawaiian Islands. Yours for accurate tip.

The NATIONAL COOKING SCHOOL by Katherine Caldwell

FOR BEGINNERS or for any woman who does not feel she has mastered the Art of Cookery

A New Course of 12 EASY LESSONS

Begins in
Tuesday, Oct. 2 COURIER
Wednesday, Oct. 3 JOURNAL
And Continues
The Same Day of Each Week for the Eleven Following Weeks

ONE of the tragedies of the age is the household wherein there is not a good cook—one who really knows food, for in that household there is sure to be waste which works against the family finances, just as improperly prepared and improperly combined foods work against the family health, causing unhappiness and no end of trouble. To those who do not consider the subject seriously it may not seem so important at the first glance. But it is the unmistakable truth that there is no accomplishment known to women which can compare with that of being a good cook. It does not matter whether the woman in question is to do her own work or have a staff of servants—these are the reasons for this new cookery course.

After five years of preparation, Katherine Caldwell is offering to all readers of this paper, her new 12 Lesson Course in the Art of Cookery, making it possible for everyone, regardless of their income, to find a new thrill in the preparation of food. These new easy ways are without a doubt the most interesting and economical ways.

The first lesson will appear in the Tuesday, October 2 Courier, and Wednesday, October 3 Journal. The other eleven lessons in the course will appear on this same day each week for eleven weeks. Read and study every paragraph. You will find the lessons decidedly helpful in the future as well as the present.

Control of Power
Big league pitchers know that power is not enough. The important thing is to control that power—particularly in tight situations where you've got to bear down to win.
The Ford V-8 gives you all the power you need — and some to spare. But that's only half the story. It performs superbly because it gives you sure, effective control of that power.
Speed that takes you over the pathways of the world and brings you safely home, as fast as you want to go. Stability on curves and a feeling of confidence in every tight situation. A quick change of pace that saves you minutes in traffic.
The Ford V-8 shortens distance, not so much by its potential top speed, but by the swiftness with which it resumes running speed after the inevitable stops and pauses.
It's a seasoned campaigner—this Ford V-8—and it has proved it can take it in many severe tests. It has scored important victories in road races at Elgin, Jacksonville, Los Angeles and Targio Florio. On Labor Day, three Ford V-8 cars broke all previous stock car records for climbing Pike's Peak. The Fords in this climb were equipped with high-compression cylinder heads, optional equipment for altitude driving. The V-type engine holds every major speed record on land, on water and in the air.
Every day—on every road—in the hands of hundreds of thousands of motorists—the Ford V-8 is proving its leadership both by outstanding performance—and by low cost of operation. Drive it yourself and see what a tremendous difference the V-8 engine makes.

MICKEY COCHRANE
Manager of the Detroit Tigers says: "I've caught a lot of great pitchers and they've all had two things . . . power and control. That's what has put us up there this year. All top-notchers have it—in baseball and in other lines of sport."

REEMPLOYMENT SERVICE IS DESIGNED TO HELP PUBLIC

Due to the fact that there are many misunderstandings as to the purpose of the National Reemployment Service, R. H. Easley, district manager, Saturday stated that the following article had been prepared by the state director of that service for publication in the press throughout the state in order to correct these impressions.

N. R. S. Now Ready (to) Serve

At the County Court House there is a government office with 4 employees.

It hasn't anything to do with relief. It hasn't anything to do with charity. No relief; no charity. What can it be?

The office at the Court House is the National Reemployment Service. Its job is to find jobs for men and men for jobs.

Women are included, of course. Women must work, as well as men, if they have no other means of support.

This office does just one thing—connects men and women with jobs. It isn't interested—officially — whether the man or woman has anything to eat. It isn't interested—officially—whether he or she has any clothing, a place to live, or anything else. Jobs—that's all it is interested in, officially.

This office doesn't "put" or "assign" men and women to jobs. It just connects the man or woman and the job. After it does this, the man or woman and the employer work out their own problems. If the man or woman doesn't like the job, it is no affair of the National Reemployment Service. That organization has fulfilled its duty when it connects them.

Not Much "Red Tape"

There isn't a lot of "red tape" in the office, either. The man or woman who is seeking a job has to answer some questions. How else would the man in charge of the office know what kind of a connection to make? The man or woman seeking a job answers the questions that are necessary for the record, just like answering the questions at any employment agency, or for any private employer. There is no lecture on thrift. The job seeker isn't made to feel that he or she is an object of charity.

That is one side of the picture. The other, and the more important, concerns the employer. The employer may be John Doe, who wants someone to carry out the ashes, or Richard Doe, who wants a highly specialized mechanic or executive. This side is more important, because it is easier to find people wanting jobs than it is to find people who need workers.

Here's How It Works

If John Doe wants someone to carry out the ashes, do a bit of plastering, painting, carpenter work—anything—all he has to do is to call the National Reemployment Service by phone, and make known his needs. The office force goes through its files, picks out a man that seems to meet the requirements, and tells John Doe his name and address, or hunts him up and tells him about John Doe. That's all there is to it.

It may be that John Doe wants just one man, for just an hour or two of work. Or maybe the PWA contractor wants a force of men for a long-time job. If it is the PWA, or any other such organization, the office doesn't "assign" the men to the job, as has been stated. It just connects the men and the job.

The job of finding jobs is the big job. The office can't make jobs. It has to rely on people in the community to provide the jobs. That means, you, and you, and you.

No Cost for Service

What does it cost for this service? You will not have to lay down a dime for it. Local incidental expenses of the office are provided by the County and City Governments. The Federal government pays the office force. Big salaries? The average salary throughout the state, including local and district managers, is $23.19 a week. Even in this day and age you can't call that "big money."

So, if you have a job of work to be done, call the National Reemployment office and tell them what you need. You will be under no obligations to employ the person who is recommended. The scale of pay is a matter between you and the person you hire. Of course, you can tell the office about how much you want to pay, and the office will try to find a job-seeker willing to work for that figure. You can get union or non-union workers. That is up to you. The office doesn't take sides. It is happy to place one as well as the other. That goes, too for race, creed and everything else. Its sole mission is to find for you the kind of employee that you desire.

Interested in History

You might be interested in a bit of history concerning the office. The first connection of jobs and men was made in November when the PWA asked for some workmen. The CWA called for workmen in December. In January 788 jobs and men had been connected. To date 1,130 jobs and workers have been connected.

The NRS employees are on the job everyday, connecting jobs and men. They are there to serve you. If you have a little work to be done about the house, office, or store, they have the man you want. If you have a permanent job so much the better. There's no job too small or too big. You are under no obligation to hire the man or woman they recommend. You are under no obligation to the office, under any circumstances.

The National Reemployment Service is just what its name implies—service to those who are in need of employees, and to employees who are in need of jobs.

Quadruplets Are Doing Pretty Well, Too, Thank You

Quadruplets are just about as important as quintuplets, if you want the opinion of these four little girls and their parents, Constable and Mrs. Carl A. Morlock, of Lansing, Mich.—and just as pretty, too, as the picture strikingly shows. Donning their best dresses and hair ribbons, these 4-year-olds posed to show what a healthy, happy quartet they are. None of them ever has had a sick day. Left to right are Edna, Sarah, Wilma, and Helen.

Sewing Room for Relief Women to Be Opened Oct. 15

A sewing room for women who are receiving assistance through the Illinois Emergency Relief commission will be opened in Jacksonville by October 15th, it was announced Saturday. Women of families in which there are no men, or in which the man is unable to work, will be given employment at the work room where they will work for their budgets.

Mrs. Tillie J. Kelly, director of relief in Morgan county, is making preliminary arrangements for the opening of the work room. It will be located in a frame building on West Lafayette avenue, formerly occupied by the Federgreen Clothing factory. This building has been donated to the Emergency Relief by J. Capps & Sons, for use as long as necessary.

The furnace to heat the building was donated by Brady Brothers Hardware store, and wood cut by relief workmen will be used to heat the room this winter. The city will furnish water to the building without cost.

All clothing and articles made in the work room will be used to clothe the needy people of Jacksonville and Morgan county, Mrs. Kelly said. The sewing will be done under the direction of an experienced forewoman.

Need Sewing Machines

Mrs. Kelly said that the relief organization is badly in need of sewing machines for use of the women workers. She asks all citizens of the county who have sewing machines not in use to donate them to the work shop. Scissors also are needed to launch the work project.

The relief organization has a number of men who will repair sewing machines donated to the work room. The machines will be called for by relief workers and trucked to headquarters.

At least ten women will be given employment when the work room opens, and others probably will be added. They will make sheets, towels, layettes, undergarments, dresses, aprons, work shirts, blouses and shirts for boys, comforts and quilts.

Materials will be sent from the state headquarters of the relief commission. They are bought on the open market through bids. The first shipment of materials for the work room will arrive early in the month.

It is probable that a work room will be opened at Meredosia within the next few weeks, and a third at a place in the county yet to be determined.

The women will receive compensation for their work that heretofore has been given as direct relief. A thirty-hour week will be the maximum for each worker.

ONE THOUSAND LOANS IN LOCAL DISTRICT

One thousand loans have now been paid out in the Springfield district by the Home Owners' Loan Corporation a bulletin of the Illinois Agency announced Saturday.

Last March the first loan was paid out in the district, which includes territory covered by sub-district offices in Quincy, Jacksonville, Havana, and Springfield. Since that time, production has been increasing steadily so that the 266 loans paid out in the month of August set an unprecedented new record.

The high rate of pay-outs has been maintained during September and last Thursday at the close of business 1002 transactions had been completed and recorded.

This figure represents almost four million dollars in federal funds which were used to save distressed homes in the district since March of this year.

Enthusiasm for NRA Not So Strong with Housewives, Report

New York—(AP)—A canvass showing changing opinions about N.R.A. by 16,500 American women is made public by Dr. Paul S. Achilles and Dr. Rensis Likert, psychologists on the faculties of Columbia and New York Universities respectively.

The study covers the past 11 months and finds a small decrease in the number of women who "believed in N.R.A." The report states the study was undertaken primarily to discover how few people must be questioned in order to measure trends in public opinion.

"We were not primarily interested in N.R.A.," the psychologists state, "but merely took this as one good example of current problems."

"The women were of that large group who do their own housework, have a family of average size and live in houses having no more than one bathroom.

"Drs. Achilles and Likert in cooperation with 50 psychologists in 50 cities and towns scattered throughout 40 states, have systematically interviewed 16,500 housewives since last October. The reactions were obtained on unemployment relief, buy America, foreign debts and other social problems.

"The following question about N.R.A. was included "From what you have seen of the NRA in your neighborhood, do you believe it is working well?'"

The answers were yes, no and don't know.

"The most interesting point about these results," the report states, "is the manner in which they reflect the gradual formation of public opinion. People do not suddenly change their minds from one belief to another. The yes column shifts to don't know before arriving at a positive no."

Doubts That Relief Loads Can Be Borne by Private Groups

Washington—(AP)—Newton D. Baker was doubtful today about the results of the relief administration's plea that private agencies shoulder a larger share of the relief load.

Baker, who is chairman of the 1934 mobilization for human needs conference, said he thought "about as much" would be raised in community chest drives this year as last. But many welfare organizations will have resources, he said, only to carry on social service. The federal government, states and municipalities must continue actual support of the needy, he added.

Harry L. Hopkins, relief administrator, made the plea for a revival of direct relief by private agencies at a luncheon of the conference yesterday. Hopkins appealed also for certain states to assume more of the burden, warning that states which shirk, face the withdrawal of federal funds. "I'm thoroughly fed up on states and cities passing the buck to us," he said.

Baker voiced the hope that this winter would see the passing of the crisis.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, at a dinner last night, urged the conferees "to make this country a place where social justice and security are the basis of civilization."

Frederic R. Kellogg of Morristown, N. J., was elected president of Community Chests and Councils, Inc., administrative agency of the 34 welfare agencies cooperating in the conference. He succeeds John Stewart Bryan, president of William and Mary College Foundation, and Stillman F. Westbrook, of Hartford, Conn., was elected vice president.

Hendon Chubb of Orange, N. Y., was chosen treasurer, and Percival Dodge of Detroit, Mich., secretary.

Vanderbilt Girl is Called Poor Orphan During Court Fight

New York, Sept. 29.—(AP)—The little millionairess, Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt, was likened to "a poor orphan" today in the Vanderbilt-Morgan-Whitney quarrel over her.

Who should have custody of the 10-year-old heiress—her mother, Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt, or her aunt, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney—will be decided Monday in an open trial before Supreme Court Justice John F. Carew.

Mrs. Laura Kilpatrick Morgan submitted an affidavit to Justice Carew yesterday, asserting that her own daughter, Mrs. Vanderbilt, was not a fit guardian for the child. She asked that custody be given to the paternal aunt.

It happened at a private hearing in the justice's chambers. The poor little rich girl, Gloria, was there; so was her mother. But they did not speak.

Mrs. Morgan said: "I do not believe she (Gloria) should be in the custody of her mother, who is my daughter. We lived in Paris for four and a half years and during that period my daughter paid absolutely no attention to Gloria."

Mrs. Whitney attested that she "loves the child as one of her own," and that she would guard Gloria's health more carefully.

The hearing arose from a habeas corpus proceeding, started by Mrs. Vanderbilt to recover possession of her daughter from Mrs. Whitney, who she says has been holding the child illegally since last Friday, when a nurse took her to the Whitney home.

In her petition, Mrs. Vanderbilt said her daughter owns securities "in excess of $2,000,000."

But Mrs. Morgan said: "Little Gloria was like a poor orphan. She was not wanted."

Fast Train Strikes Stalled Car; 2 Dead

Conroy, O.—(AP)—Both the engineer and the firemen of the Gotham Limited of the Pennsylvania Railroad, east bound from Chicago to New York, were killed early today when part of the train was derailed after it had struck a stalled automobile. All of the passengers were reported to have escaped serious injury.

Harry Tourgee, 58, of Fort Wayne, Ind., the engineer died while being taken to a hospital at Fort Wayne. Ind. B. J. Gladen, 43, of Delphos, O., the fireman, died at the scene of the wreck. David E. Miller, Lima, O., the mail clerk, suffered a nose injury and was taken to the Methodist Hospital at Fort Wayne.

The locomotive and five cars, including three pullmans left the rails, but only a few of the passengers were shaken up, the railroad reported. The locomotive and the cars tore up the right-of-way for several hundred feet after leaving the rails and then crashed into the station.

Union Head Charged with Kelly Slaying

Chicago.—(AP)—Ralph Stoltzmann, president of the union which called the strike against the Chicago Motor Coach Company, was accused today of connection with the killing of James Kelly, bus dispatcher, slain during a recent outburst of violence in the labor dispute.

Stoltzmann, the police said, was accused by Earl Renner of suburban Elmwood Park of giving him $400 to hire men to commit illegal acts in connection with the strike. Stoltzmann denied the accusation and asserted he had never seen Renner until the latter confronted him in the office of Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert Crowley.

Kelly died last Thursday after he had been beaten and shot by several men on the preceding day. Renner, the police said, was identified by Albert Semple, Edward Nacki and John Bretschneider as the man who gave them $10 each for the attack on Kelly.

Stoltzmann, who is head of Local 1022 of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes of America, surrendered last night and Detective Chief John L. Sullivan said he would be held for Kelly's death.

Virginia callers in Jacksonville yesterday included Mrs. Otis Middletown and Mrs. Susan Loving.

DIETERICH CONFIDENT

Washington, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Senator Dieterich (D-Ill.), said today he was confident Illinois' Democrats would not only retain their 19 seats in the house but would add at least two more at the November elections.

The party, he said, would easily refill those seats made vacant by the death of Speaker Rainey of Carrollton, and the resignation of J. Earl Major of Hillsboro, and would elect Michael T. Igoe to replace Walter Nesbit who was defeated in the primaries for renomination as representative at large. Nesbit is running on a third party ticket.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar W. Gregory of Naples were among the Saturday shoppers here.

HOPES OF OLD GUARD NEW YORK G.O.P. TO DEPEND UPON MOSES

Rochester, N. Y.—(AP)—Once more under the veteran leadership of the "old guard" of the party, New York Republicans today geared their campaign for the fall election to an anti-new deal platform and a state ticket headed by Robert Moses, park commissioner of New York City.

As running mate to Moses, the gubernatorial candidate, the party chose E. Harold Cluett of Troy, wealthy shirt and collar manufacturer as candidate for United States senator. He will oppose Senator Royal S. Copeland.

Samuel Seabury, who exposed the New York City graft rings and who was Macy's choice for the gubernatorial honors, ran third with Mayor Rolland B. Marvin of Syracuse second. It was understood that Seabury, after seeing the trend on earlier ballots, released the delegates pledged to him.

CARDINALS BEAT REDS AND TAKE LEAGUE LEAD

Van Lingle Mungo Pitches And Bats New York Giants Out of League Leadership

By Edward J. Neil

New York, Sept. 29.—(AP)—The 1933 national league pennant race came crashing down around the ears of the frantic New York Giants today as the irate Brooklyn Dodgers, behind the magnificent pitching of young Van Lingle Mungo, beat them 5 to 1, knocked them out of the lead they've held since June and just about boosted the St. Louis Cardinals right into the world series with the American league champions, the Detroit Tigers.

There is one more game to go before rigor mortis sets in officially, but as far as the word champion Giants are concerned, the situation is as desperate as it can be without all hope having departed. The Cardinals' 6 to 1 victory over Cincinnati gave the Red Birds a full game lead with but one to go. The Giants must whip the Dodgers in the final game tomorrow while St. Louis is losing, to restore the tie and force the first play-off series in major league history. Under no possible circumstance can the Giants now get better than a tie for the regular season, or the Cards worse than that.

It was a day as drab and cheerless as the Giants' prospects. Thirsting for revenge ever since Bill Terry coyly questioned for publication last winter whether Brooklyn was still in the league, the Dodgers came roaring over the bridge that separates the boroughs to play like world champions while the Giants frittered nervously all over the rain-soaked sod in the half drizzle that shrouded the play.

And the swarm of rabid rooters that came with the invaders, numbering most of the 13,774 who paid in, didn't help the Giants any with their whole hearted booing and mad array of noise-making machinery.

Mungo, the young fireball right hander, was the triple threat hero of the occasion, and tonight he's the toast of the most rabid fandom in the world. He scored the Dodgers' first run in the fifth after singling to center, taking second on a passed ball, and resting there until "Buzz" Boyle singled him home with a rap to center. He drove in the second run in the sixth with another single to right after little Lonnie Frey, 21-year-old shortstop, had opened with a single to center and had been sacrificed to second by Len Koenecke.

Then to top it all off, when the desperate Giants rose against him in the ninth, with Terry scratching an infield hit and Mel Ott walking, the lanky youngster hitched up his trousers, hurled his fast one swifter through the gloom, and fanned Travis Jackson, George Watkins, and lefty Frank O'Doul in a row to end the game. Watkins, who belted a long homer into the right field stands in the seventh for the only score off Mungo, never even saw the third strike, while O'Doul passed out without taking his bat from his shoulder. All told Mungo, winning his 18th and final game of the season, fanned seven and allowed only five hits.

His pitching rival through eight innings, big swift LeRoy Parmelee, was always in trouble, and he was hit safely in every inning but the eighth, allowing ten in all while fanning seven.

A rookie left hander, Al Smith, started the ninth after Parmelee gave way to a pinch hitter, but he was lifted after a walk to Koenecke and singles by Sam Leslie and Tony Cuccinello drove in one run and brought ancient "me feex" Luque to the rescue. Two passes forced Leslie home with the final score. The Dodgers got twelve hits, all singles.

No team in baseball history ever has blown in so short a time the lead the Giants had piled up, seven full games, at the high water mark, Sept. 6, after leading the league from June 8 on. The world champions have lost twelve out of their last twenty games, while the Cards have won 17 out of 22. The closest approach to this colossal debacle was the loss of a seven-game lead by the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1921, but five of that evaporated in an August series with the ultimate winner, John McGraw's Giants.

After today's game was over, Casey Stengel, manager of the Dodgers, headed proudly back to his own bailiwick.

"Tell Terry," he said, "we're still in the league. But we're by no means still."

PIRATES WHIP BRUINS 6 TO 3

Chicago, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Scoring four runs in the eighth inning through the direct result of as many passes issued by Jim Weaver, Pittsburgh defeated the Cubs, 6 to 3, today to keep their slim chances of finishing in fourth place alive.

After the Pirates had piled up a 6 to 0 lead, an eighth inning homer by Augie Galan with two on prevented the Chicagoans from being shut out by Red Lucas.

After Lucas opened the Pirate eighth with a scratch hit, Weaver walked four of the next five men, with the other sacrificing. Tinning replaced Weaver and Gus forced two runs across the plate. Bud Suhr singled to score two more.

ILLINOIS SWAMPS BRADLEY 40 TO 7

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 29—(AP)—The complexities of the passing formations which Bob Zuppke has outlined for his Illinois grid squad proved the downfall of Bradley Tech's Indians today as the Illini romped to an easy 40 to 7 victory before 30,000 persons. Most of the attendance was made up of school children and boy scouts who were admitted free.

Illinois was supreme in every branch of the game and scored once in each of the first three periods and three times in the final quarter. Twenty-seven Illinois players saw service and wore Bradley down for the last period rush. Illinois scored 19 first downs to 3 for the losers.

Les Lindberg, Olonde Swede halfback of the Illini, provided the one one long run of the game when he galloped 65 yards to a touchdown on the opening play of the fourth period. Lindberg's interference formed perfectly as he started around right end and reversed his field.

Bradley's touchdown came early after the opening of the second half. Lee Handley's long pass intended for Zimmerman was ruled complete on Portman's interference and placed the ball on the Illinois 18. The score came on Handley's pass to Neve Harms who fell over the goal as he was tackled. Handley's placement accounted for the extra point.

The complicated Illini plays which call for triple passes behind the line of scrimmage and then a forward toss stood in good stead today and were directly responsible for three touchdowns. In each case, the Bradley team was drawn out of position and the throw was to an unguarded Illinois player.

In the first quarter, Wilbur Henry heaved to Lindberg who was standing in the flat zone and over the goal for a clean touchdown. Again in the third quarter Henry threw a touchdown pass. Theodore received the ball from center, handed it to Grieve who lateralled to Henry. Henry threw a long spiral to Dykstra who took the ball on the 10 and galloped acrossed.

Beardstown Powerhouse Tips Jacksonville High 33 to 0 in One-Sided Football Game

Beardstown, Sept. 29.—Beardstown high's powerhouse, running low and blocking hard, upset Jacksonville high school's shakey Crimsons 33 to 0 in a one sided football game, and used reserves during the final part of the first half and all of the fourth quarter.

The score, almost unbelievable to Jacksonville fans, who composed almost half of the largest crowd in two years to witness a football game on the Beardstown field, was a tribute to an alert and ever-driving Beardstown team, one that got a lot of breaks, and one that didn't let an opportunity to get a break slip by. Jacksonville gave Beardstown feet and they took yards.

The game was only two and a half minutes old when Beardstown capitalized on the first break, an error on the opening kick-off. Beardstown kicked to Jacksonville, a wobbly wiggly effort that appeared to be headed out of bounds. Mose Wicks, to whom the ball came, let it go, thinking of course that it was going out. The ball took one of those crazy hops, however, bounced back into the field of play, and before Wicks could cover it, two Beardstown players had it smothered on the Jacksonville 28.

DeSollar, whose terrific line plunges were the bane of the Jacksonville defense all afternoon, banged through a tackle for a 100 yard sprint after one play failed. He cracked the line again, and with tacklers falling him like leaves from the trees in autumn, he plowed to the two foot line. Kays pounded through the Jacksonville line for the touchdown, and DeSollar plunged for the extra point.

Fumbles Costly

Bent on giving Beardstown everything, Jacksonville took the next kick-off, recovered a fumble and then booted it into Beardstown territory. Beardstown came right back, kicking the ball to the middle of the field where Jacksonville fumbled, and Beardstown recovered. Beardstown worked the ball deep into Jacksonville territory and lost it on a fumble. Wainright, who played about the only real football for the Jacksonville team, fumbled when he was tackled viciously in the line, and Beardstown recovered on the Jacksonville 30 yard line.

Duffelmeier ripped off 23 yards on a smash off the tackle, and DeSollar, carrying two Jacksonville necktie tacklers with him, plowed across the goal line for the second touchdown of the opening quarter. The plunge for the added point failed, and there was still four minutes to play in the first quarter.

Shaking thoroughly by this time, J. H. S. created the situation for the next Beardstown touchdown when Chuck DeWitt fumbled a Beardstown punt on his own 25 yard line, and Beardstown recovered. DeSollar, on the first play hit off tackle, slanted out and ran across the goal line without anyone offering seriously to pull him down. Kay plunged for the point.

The fourth touchdown came with four minutes left in the first half. Duffelmeier catching a punt about the middle of the field and carrying it back to the Jacksonville 12 before he was hauled down. He fumbled when he was tackled, however, but Bell recovered the ball for Beardstown. DeSollar made easy work of the next 12 yards, dashing off tackle for the distance and knocking off several arm tacklers.

Click On Pass

Beardstown started its final touchdown push from the center of the field, Kays flipping a 25 yard pass to Hagerty to put the ball on the Jacksonville 22. Duffiemeier ripped off 13 yards to put the ball on the nine yard stripe. Kays made five yards, and Duffiemeier rumbled the last four yards for the marker. Lindley ran off tackle for the extra point.

Jacksonville made its only serious threat in the third quarter when Wicks blocked a punt on the Beardstown 11 yard line, but Beardstown recovered and soon had the Crimsons back up in their own territory again.

Beardstown recovered a number of fumbles, intercepted several passes, and outplayed Jacksonville in every way. They were a far better football team than Jacksonville, yesterday, and probably will be a better football team all season. They outweighed the Crimsons in both the line and backfield, but gained their ground through hard running, hard blocking, and stopped Jacksonville with hard tackling.

On the other hand, only one Jacksonville player made a tackle below the hips all during the game. Charles Davis coming in during the last quarter to spill one Beardstown player with a neat tackle. The Crimsons tried to stop the heavy Beardstown backs by making arm tackles, and bounced off the burly lads. Blocking appeared to be woefully ineffective, Beardstown stopping everything that was sent into the line, and catching end runs before they got out of the backfield.

PITTSBURGH BEATS W. AND J. 26 TO 6

Pittsburgh, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Riding into the rain soaked stadium against the vaunted power of Pitt, Washington and Jefferson's crimson band today fell before the Panthers 26 to 6 but only after the victors, played to a standstill on the line, took to the air and ran the ends with a thundering running attack.

More than 13,000 fans defied the almost steady showers to see the teams renew a rivalry started 44 years ago.

The Panthers, undefeated by an eastern team in years, lashed out in the second period to register two touchdowns. Relying on the galloping dashes at the flanks, and occasional passes, Pitt scored two more touchdowns in the final period.

Meanwhile, dark-haired Dan Croft of W. and J. danced around Pitt's secondary in the third period with a series of skillful pivots, and outran the Panthers for 87 yards to turn in the proxies' only touchdown of the afternoon. His kick for the extra point was wide.

White Hall at Jerseyville (night).
Greenfield, Open.

Roodhouse, where the past two Illinois Valley championships have rested, declared itself very much in the money for this year's campaign when they opened their season against Collinsville Saturday afternoon, holding that team to a 6-0 score. Three teams, Carrollton, Jerseyville and Pleasant Hill are out in front in the conference race at present, and all three leaders have tough games coming up this week.

The headliner, in view of the championship defense, will be at Roodhouse where Pleasant Hill will appear Friday afternoon. None-the-less important will be the game between Winchester and Carrollton on the Carrollton grid the same afternoon or the battle between White Hall and Jerseyville Friday night. Pittsfield will go over to Louisiana for its competition this week-end, while Coach Chlorus Hubbell utilizes an off week to get ready for the opening of the Greene county war.

Apparently a lot of spoofing has been going around the conference regarding the strength of the various teams. Winchester has come up with a team that may knock off a few of the leaders before the campaign is over, and White Hall, although they got a tie out of their tussle with Winchester, failed to impress as much as the weight and experience have led followers to expect.

Carrollton's 19-0 victory over Pittsfield came as somewhat of a surprise, more by the margin than the fact that they won the game. Carrollton has a number of veterans this year, and from all appearances, these boys are going out to grab off their first conference title, if it is at all possible.

White Hall has the potential strength and it may be that their close call with Winchester will stir the boys to greater efforts. Jerseyville is reported as having a heavy team, and one which can not be counted out of the race.

Conference followers are expecting one of the most exciting seasons in the history of the league. They can see that this year's champion may suffer one conference defeat before the season is over.

INDIANA DEFEATS OHIO U. 27 TO 0

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 29—(AP)—An Indiana University eleven displaying unusual dash and reception surprised Ohio University in the season's opening game today with a 27 to 0 conquest.

The unorthodox shifts of the Hoosiers' "five man" backfield, some pretty broken field running by Ray Fox, sophomore quarterback, and a general alertness by the Crimson team kept the Ohioans on the defensive.

Coach Bo McMillan opened his first year as coach of the Big Ten team with a victory by the largest score an Indiana eleven has piled up in years.

Expected to be hampered by the loss of Vernon Huffman, injured triple threat back, Indiana produced an effective aerial attack with accurate heaves by Wendell Walker, which produced two touchdowns. The other scores came on a sweeping end run behind vicious interference, and a scooped up fumble.

The Indiana eleven made its first score five minutes after the game started. Fox returned a punt 37 yards, a 21-yard pass was ruled complete because of interference, and after a first down on line plunges, Chris Dal Sacco, sophomore tackle, scooped up Fox's fumble and dashed 15 yards to the goal.

Don Veller, shifty little veteran halfback, contributed the second touchdown.

The Hoosiers broke loose in the final period. A 25-yard pass from Walker bounced out of a tangle of players, and Ettore Antonini, giant end, pulled it out of the air to run seven yards to the goal. A few minutes later Don Yoder returned a punt 24 yards to the Ohio 26, and a series of end runs finally sent Chuck Burton across.

Ohio's only sustained drive came early in the second period when a drive from midfield was halted by the Hoosier line on the 14-yard line.

The Hoosiers made ten first downs to Ohio's four.

Score by periods:

BEAT GRINNELL

East Lansing, Mich., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Michigan State opened its schedule here today by downing Grinnell College of Iowa, 33 to 20, in a game in which the aerial attacks of both teams predominated.

State scored three of its touchdowns via the aerial route, while one Grinnell score came on a pass and the other two touchdowns were by intercepted tosses.

Young Paul Dean Pitches Brilliantly in Pinches to Put Team Out in Front

St. Louis, Sept. 29.—(AP)—The National league's latest "wonder team," the St. Louis Cardinals, rose to the leadership of the circuit today, just one day before the end of the season, by slamming out a 6 to 1 victory over the humble Cincinnati Reds to break their first-place deadlock with the New York Giants.

The triumph was coincident with New York's 5 to 1 defeat at the hands of the Brooklyn Dodgers and put the Cards a full game ahead, in a spot where they can't lose the flag without going through the first play-off series in major league history.

Buried in third place less than a month ago, the Cards gained their third straight triumph over Cincinnati and their twenty-first in 28 games since they deserted that position. Young Paul Dean did the trick today, pitching expertly in the clinch to subdue the Cincinnati batsmen although he gave them eleven hits. Tomorrow, manager Frank Frisch announced, big brother Dizzy will go back on the hill after only one day of rest in an effort to clinch the flag without a playoff. It was Dizzy who blanked the Reds yesterday to give St. Louis a first-place tie.

If the elder of the famous pitching pair succeeds, St. Louis will win the championship regardless of what the Giants do in their closing clash against Brooklyn. A cancelled game, if the weather forces it, will be just as good. The only way the Giants have a chance to win the flag is to capture tomorrow's game while St. Louis loses. In that case a three-game playoff for the title will be necessary to decide which of the rivals will oppose the Detroit Tigers in the world series.

The younger Dean, winning his 19th victory of the season today, was almost as effective as the famous Jerome Herman was yesterday although he was hit rather more freely. The only run the Reds scored was in the eighth inning when Jim Bottomley hoisted a home run onto the top of the pavilion roof. Cincinnati had two other chances, one in the third when Paul struck out two batters with men on first and second, and one in the ninth, when the Reds loaded the bases with only one out. Then Dean got rid of Gordon Slade on a pop fly to Durocher and Mark Koenig flied to Joe Medwick.

The Cardinals gave their young hurler plenty of batting support, especially in the first and fifth innings, when they did all their scoring. In all they made a dozen hits off Paul Derringer, Cincinnati's "hard luck" hurler, and his two successors, Allyn Stout and Beryl Richmond, and six of them came in those two important frames. Medwick and Jim (Ripper) Collins led the assault. The former accounted for three tallies with a triple and a home run while Collins made three blows, including a double, scored one run and batted in one.

WILDCATS DEFEAT MARQUETTE 21-12

By Paul Mickelson,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Evanston, Ill., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Firing forward passes with almost the same deadly precision that Dizzy Dean hurls baseballs, George Potter carried Northwestern to a 21 to 12 triumph over the plucky Hilltoppers from Marquette in the Wildcat football inaugural at Dyche Stadium today.

The Wildcats, nervous and offside so often they lost 90 yards through penalties, looked like just another football team today except for the deadly throwing arm of Potter. All through the battle, which found the Wildcats leading from start to finish, it was Potter and more Potter. His passes opened the gate for the first two Wilcat touchdowns and, late in the first period when the Hilltoppers threatened to go ahead, it was Potter who intercepted a pass that soon was converted into the final Northwestern score.

The Wildcats completed seven out of 10 passes for a total of 156 yards. All told, they gained 337 yards to 238 for Marquette, whose outstanding light was Roy McMahon, who scored both Marquette touchdowns and blocked two punts.

Northwestern fumbled away its first scoring chance on Marquette's 5½ yard line in the first period, but came right back in the second to go ahead for good. Standing on the enemy 47, Potter passed to Bill Henderson on the Hilltopper 15 and then stepped back to shoot another heave to Henderson for the touchdown. Fred Lind entered the game and drop kicked the extra point, giving the Wildcats a 7 to 0 margin at half time.

Touchdown number two, scored early in the third period, also was started by Potter, who sailed a pass of 37 yards to Bob Swisher, who galloped nine more to the enemy three yard stripe. Wally Cruice circled his left end for the score and Duvall place kicked the added point.

Getting a wide advantage on frequent exchanges of kicks, the Hilltoppers displayed their fight by coming back to score touchdowns in the third and final periods and try twice for a score by place kicks.

Aided by frequent Northwestern penalties, the Hilltopers marched and passed 65 yards to score. Art Guepe throwing a short pass to McMahon for a 10 yard gain and the score. More Northwestern penalties and a to Cuff and vice versa carried the series of short passes, from Buivid Hilltoppers to the Wildcat 10 mid in the fourth from which point Bui flipped a short one to McMahon for the score. Cuff's try for the extra point was wide.

With four minutes to go, the Wildcats stopped the Marquette rally. Potter intercepted Buivid's pass near midfield and raced to the Hilltoppers' 43. Five plays resulted in the final touchdown, Duvall going over on two line smashes from the 8½ yard line. Duvall also kicked the extra point.

SENATORS SPLIT WITH YANKEES

Washington, Sept. 29. — (AP)—The Senators and the New York Yankees cuffed each other around freely today to divide a doubleheader, marked principally by one of Babe Ruth's triumphant farewell appearances. Washington won the opener 8 to 4 and the Yanks came back with a 9 to 6 decision in the afterpiece.

Ruth celebrated the opening of his last visit to the capital as a Yankee regular by clouting his 22nd home run of the season with two mates on base in the seventh inning to take some of the sting out of the opening defeat. The Senators hopped on Johnny Broaca at the start to take this game with a 15-hit attack. The Yanks reversed the order in the second clash, getting 15 blows, mostly off Reese Diggs and Alex McColl in the early innings.

QUINCY HIGH GRIDDERS TURN BACK I. S. D. TIGERS

The Associated Press yesterday acknowledged the possibility that the St. Louis Cardinals might win the National League pennant when they sent out over their system a note that working press reservations might be made with Mr. So-and-so.

However, we don't believe it's the A. P.'s fault. It appears to be one on the Baseball Writers' Association which handles ducats for world's series. The Baseball Writers decided some time ago that the Giants were as good as in.

And you can imagine the number of folks around this part of the country who have suddenly rallied to the point where they are giving the Cardinals their mental support.

Looking over Beardstown's team yesterday, we wondered where in thunder Coach Mosher has been digging to find such material. Their line appeared to average about 170 pounds, and their backfield appeared to be about 165 pounds. Maybe it was their bright orange shirts that made them appear that large.

J. H. S. looked worse to us than they did a week before the football season started. All of their tackling was up around the neck, despite Coach Walker's workout with the tackling dummy last week, and the blocks were futile efforts to keep the bigger Beardstown boys from messing things up.

Beardstown has a powerful team, one of the most powerful we have seen in high school circles this year. They would make a good match for Routt, and what a game that would be. Coach Mosher tells us he loses all of the team except a guard and one halfback this year. However, he should worry about Jacksonville next year—his second string held J. H. S. almost completely in check, and they'll all be back.

Winchester, rated as becoming an athletic graveyard, has responded remarkably well under the guidance of Coach Andrew Chapman. Winchester is going to be dangerous this year, in football, and we'll have to wait until basketball rolls around before making any prognostications.

Winchester appears to be gathering finesse rapidly. By finesse, we mean they do their play with a certain knowledge of what is to be accomplished, and they are willing to block and tackle hard. They are becoming Wildcats once more.

In fact, despite the gloomy predictions that Winchester wouldn't be able to win a game this year, a large crowd stood through the rain Friday afternoon to watch the Wildcats work. George Peak, the well known showhorse trainer, was among the gathering, standing throughout the game under an umbrella and occasionally letting loose with his fog-horn voice.

Jerseyville has a big team, according to reports, and a team which may be able to do things in a big way, once they get on a dry field. Coach Hubbell didn't want to play Jerseyville Friday night, because of the rain, but Jerseyville already was on the grounds and insisted upon playing the game.

According to J. Russell Shields, Greenfield official, that city is giving Coach Hubbell its best co-operation. Hubbell, who has a small group this year, has the boys working hard and the city appreciates their efforts.

In fact, all over the Illinois Valley football appears to be on the upgrade. If some one asked us to pick a champion right now, we couldn't do it.

Illinois College opens its season here next Saturday, and from all reports, Illinois is going to have a tough opening opponent. Breezy Keyes, who played center on last year's Roodhouse team, made the third string at the position at North Central this year, and felt fortunate. He writes to home folks that they have a football team.

Carbondale Normal opened its Little 19 season with a 14-0 victory over St. Viator Friday night.

And Decatur, which took the Jacksonville date on the Alton schedule, played them to a scoreless tie.

Industry lost to Lewistown Friday afternoon by the grand total of 85 to 0.

Fumbles, Blocked Punt and Safety Give Quincy 14 to 0 Victory Over I.S.D. Tigers

Quincy, Sept. 29 — Fumbles, a blocked punt and a safety gave Quincy high school a hard earned 14 to 0 victory over the Illinois School for the Deaf Tigers here tonight as the Jacksonville team assisted the local team in initiating its new football field lighting equipment. Quincy scored all of its points in the first half, and then saw the Tigers take to the air to make several threatening gestures toward the Quincy goal line during the final half.

Off to a bad start, during which both teams spent the first four minutes fumbling and recovering fumbles caused by a wet turf and a slippery ball, Quincy recovered itself first and pushed over a touchdown.

The Blue and White recovered an I. S. D. fumble on the Quincy 49 yard line during the opening slump, but suddenly their offense clicked, Mutz, the quarterback and captain, wheeling around his left end for 12 yards to start the goalward rush. Bailey tossed a 25 yard pass to Reeves, to put the ball on the 14 yard line, and then Mutz crashed through the Tiger line and sprinted for the goal line. The Quincy attempt for a placement was blocked.

For the remainder of the first quarter and part of the second quarter the teams battled evenly in the middle of the field, until Quincy's offense again suddenly began to work, carrying the ball to the I. S. D. 30. Failing to gain there Bailey got off a perfect punt to the one foot line in a "coffin corner," the ball going out of bounds.

Orman, who did the punting for the Tigers, went back, and after receiving the snap from center, stepped out of bounds behind his own end zone to score the safety. The Tigers booted the ball to the middle of the field where they held Quincy for a time.

The final break of the game came a little later when the Tigers, unable to gain, attempted to kick from their own 40 yard line. Gibbs, Quincy tackle, broke through and blocked the punt, recovering the ball on the I. S. D. 30. Bailey flipped a pass to Reeves for 16 yards, Mutz made a first down on the Tiger four. Quincy lost five on an off sides penalty, Stock hit the tackles for six on two plays, and Mutz went off tackle for the touchdown. The attempt at placement was low.

WILL HONOR BABE RUTH AT CAPITAL

Washington, Sept. 29.—(AP)—George Herman "The Babe" Ruth, the most glamorous baseball figure of the generation, walked with his familiar mincing steps today to the far edge of his active playing career.

The Babe, the barrel-chested, big-stomached man with the almost spindly legs who is the idol of a goodly share of America's baseball minded kids, is going to hang up his sliding pads for the last time tomorrow.

It'll probably be "manager" Ruth next year. But the familiar line in the box scores, "Ruth, rf," will be seen no more.

A bunch of the boys planned tonight to make the Babe's final bow in the Senator-Yankee game tomorrow a memorable one. The one-time home run king has promised to play, if only for a while, to round out his 22-year string in the major league's. There may be no home runs, but the Babe will be up there swinging for the last time.

"Hell," remarked an unofficial committeeman tonight, "even if he strikes out, he strikes out better than anybody else."

The boys have fixed up a huge parchment scroll containing several thousand names of his admirers to present to the Bambino at home plate tomorrow. And as an added fillup there will be familiar tunes by the St. Mary's Industrial School Band of Baltimore.

Thirty years ago the Babe himself, an orphan, played in the same band. It was from the industrial school ranks that he sprang into organized baseball, becoming the biggest drawing card the game has ever known.

He warmed up for his final act today in typical Ruthian manner. Playing at his familiar right field stand in the first game of today's doubleheader he sent one sailing over the right field wall with two of his mates on the bases—his 22nd of the season.

Just to show that his ageing legs are still good enough to keep him in the big time right up until he makes his own voluntary bow, the Babe poled out a single and scored another run for the day.

DIZZY DEAN SAYS CARDS WILL WIN

St. Louis, Sept. 29—(AP)—With clearing skies predicted for tomorrow, Dizzy Dean confidently informed the Cardinals tonight that "there ain't going to be no playoff."

The elder Dean, cast in the pitching role for tomorrow's National league final with Cincinnati, bestowed a congratulatory pat on the back of his younger brother, Paul, after the latter had pitched the Cardinals into first place today. Then he turned to his teammates.

"Just give me a couple or three runs and there ain't going to be no playoff," he commented.

The weather man saw "generally fair" weather for tomorrow's contest, in contrast with the heavy skies which have hung over Sportsmans park during this closing week of the pennant race.

BEAT NORMAL

Bloomington, Ill., Sept. 29.—(AP)—After being held scoreless in the first half, Valparaiso University rallied today to defeat Illinois State Normal, 15 to 0. Normal was outplayed all the way, failing to make a first down while Valpo racked up 14. Karr scored on a 65 yard run, and Smatlak plunged over from the five yard line after Schmidtke had blocked a Normal punt. Normal took a safety after another blocked kick to give Valpo two more points.

IOWA STATE WINS

Ames, Ia., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Iowa State, paced by the brilliant Bill Allender, today defeated Luther College 23 to 3 in the opening football game of the season for both teams. the husky fullback scored three touchdowns for the Cyclones.

ROODHOUSE DROPS STRING OF WINS

Roodhouse, Sept. 28.—Roodhouse's victorious march was broken today at Collinsville, where the high school team lost its first game in 19 starts, extending over a three year period, when they dropped a 6-0 decision. A 30 yard pass over the goal line on the fourth down, tossed when all other means of gaining ground had failed, yielded the touchdown which broke the string of victories, marred only by one tie game.

Coach Foster Keagle and his squad returned here tonight in good shape and ready to open the defense of their Illinois Valley title against Pleasant Hill here next Friday afternoon. The boys appeared to have come through the game without any serious injuries.

The game, played on a slippery field, was thrilling from start to finish. Roodhouse opened with a rush, blasting their way to the Collinsville five yard line where they lost the ball on downs. Once put back in the middle of the field, it was another 12 minute battle to get back into Collinsville territory, Roodhouse working the ball to the 15 yard line before they were turned back.

Roodhouse had the edge in the first half, but Collinsville outgained them during the second half.

ROCKFORD GOLFER WINS STATE TITLE

Peoria, Ill., Sept. 29—(AP)—Chester Bland, of Rockford, captured the Illinois State High School Golf tournament today on the North Moor links, scene of the medal play tournament. He shot a 76 Friday and repeated the score today by going out in 39 and home in 37. He had an aggregate total of 152 strokes to take first place and the championship medal.

J. Deksnis of Tilden, Chicago, won second place with 155. He carded a 77 today and a 78 Friday. Louis Castiglioni, of Rockford, finished third with 157. Gordon Wolfey, of Rockford, and William Salelli, of Deerfield-Shields, Chicago, tied for fourth place with 158 strokes. In a playoff to determine the winner of the fourth place medal, Wolfley was the winner.

Russell Bond, Jacksonville, shot 170 for the two day's play, tying with Hugo Grimm, of Bloomington, for 19th place. James Buckley, also of this city, turned in a card of 173, to finish in 26th place, disregarding all ties. John McCall, Feitshans, golfer who won the local district, tied with two other players for eighth place.

ALL PLANS MADE FOR DONKEY GAME

Two truck loads of Missouri's famous product, the mule, will arrive here today for Jacksonville's first taste of donkey baseball, the game to be played this afternoon on the Nichols Park diamond between the American Legion and the State Hospital teams. The game, sponsored by the American Legion, will be called at 2:30 o'clock.

Implements used by the two teams will be the regulation indoor baseball bat, and regulation outdoor soft ball. The rules of the game permit the pitcher, catcher and batter to remain on the ground, but the batter, if he is able to hit the ball, must mount a mule for a ride to first base.

Persons who have seen the game call it the most laugh provoking of entertainment. The animals used are trained for the work, and have a way of doing many peculiar things during the course of a game.

MAROONS BEAT CARROLL 19 TO 0

By William Weekes.

Chicago, Sept. 29—(AP)—Warming up as their game little rivals wore down, Chicago Maroons, with Jay Berwanger furnishing most of the punch, opened their gridiron season today with a 19 to 0 victory over Carroll College of Waukesha, Wis., before 25,000 spectators.

Chicago, erratic most of the way, nevertheless seized upon scoring opportunities, making all but one of them pay dividends. After playing sluggishly in the first period until Carroll tossed a big scare into them, the Maroons came to life in time to cash in on a freak. In attempting to punt from deep in his own territory, Turner's foot completely missed the ball, and John Womer recovered for Chicago on Carroll's 25 yard line.

Berwanger wasted no time, sweeping around his own left end for a touchdown, but his try for the extra point sailed wide at the posts.

Carroll made a brilliant goal line stand midway of the third period, halting the Maroons on the one yard line. However, Turner's kick went only to his 33 yard line and once more Berwanger took charge. He twisted through the Carroll line for 22 yards and after Cullen and Nyquist had picked up eight yards, shot through for the score. This time his place kick for the point was good.

A quick kick by Berwanger just after the start of the final frame sent the sturdy Wisconsin team back on its 13 yard line. Turner kicked out to midfield, but Berwanger popped up again. He circled right end for 12 yards, and so earnest was Carroll's tackling that Chicago got another 15 yards for roughness, taking the ball to the 23 yard line. On the next play Berwanger shot a pass to John Baker who had only to step over the goal for a touchdown. Berwanger's toe failed him again.

Carroll's big moment came in the first period just before Chicago scored. On a fake punt maneuver, Turner set sail from his 26 yard line, and with beautiful blocking, raced 74 yards over the Maroon goal line. However, one of the officials saw him step out of bounds on his own 34 yard line.

Chicago made 13 first downs to 2 for Carroll, and gained 197 yards from scrimmage to 50 for the vanquished. Berwanger, the workhouse, carried the ball 25 times to gain 109 of Chicago's yards.

The summary:

Score by periods:

Carroll	0	0	0	0	— 0
Chicago	6	0	7	6	—19

CHARLES DUTCH, VIVIAN CAMPBELL TO WED IN CASS

Parties to Honor Bride-To-Be; Other News Notes From Virginia

Virginia, Sept. 28.—Mr. and Mrs. Howard Campbell have announced the approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Vivian Campbell to Charles K. Dutch, son of Mrs. Mae Dutch of Beardstown. The vows will be spoken before members of the immediate families at the home of the bride on Sunday, October 7th, at 4 o'clock. Rev. D. F. Nelson of Abingdon will perform the ceremony. Miss Audrey Fair and Mrs. Otto Dour will give a short recital preceding the ceremony.

A number of parties are being planned for Miss Campbell, who is prominently known here. She attended the Virginia high school, Penn Hal, and Knox college in Galesburg. For the past year she has been an instructor in the public schools.

Mr. Dutch is also a member of a prominent Cass county family, and is assistant cashier of the First State bank in Beardstown. The young couple will make their home in Beardstown, where he has a home in readiness on Second street.

Club Meets

The September meeting of the Virginia Household science club was held Friday afternoon in the home of Mrs. S. J. Reid. The program consisted of a musical revue, with the following songs, singers and costumed representatives:

"The Land of the Skyblue Water," Mrs. Guy Husted and Jane Yowell; "Little Boy Blue," Mrs. I. S. Yaple, Jerry Parker; "Sweet and Low," Mrs. I. S. PLAN NATIONWIDE WAR ON CRIME

New York, Sept. 29.—(AP)—A nationwide war on crime was planned here tonight by the executive committee of the National Committee on Public Education for Crime Control.

Prof. Frederick M. Thrasher of New York University, spokesman for the group, said the attack would be launched first in New York City. Later the technique worked out in the metropolis may be duplicated in other cities. Education will be the weapon used.

The function of the committee, he explained, will be to create a "reliable agency" through which sociologists, criminologists and educators may convey to the general public in simple language the significance of their findings, so that public sentiment may be crystalized.

The problem was too great to meet immediately on a national scale, Thrasher added, so New York City was selected as the proving ground.

Illinois Power and Light Corp. Brings Numerous Benefits To City and Country Homes

Today electricity performs most of the household labor. It does the washing, sweeping, refrigerates food, percolates coffee, toasts bread for breakfast, irons the clothes, cooks the meals, heats water, and lights the home. Besides this it furnishes the customer with radio entertainment of the highest quality from any part of the country, operates fans, cools homes in the summertime, and furnishes the power for private water plants. There are many other new services yet to be developed which are being given continuous thought and study by those interested in the industry. All of these services can be purchased for a few cents a day by every householder.

Many of these devices are automatic in character and require absolutely no thought or attention on the part of the owner. The modern industry today is fully equipped with electric power service through motor driven machinery much of which is operated through automatic devices which make possible a production of large quantities of manufactured goods at low costs.

Electricity Users Increase

In the year 1924 Jacksonville had 2614 homes using electricity. Ten years later in 1934 it has 3626 resident customers. Along with this constant increase in business and the increase in the number of users of electricity, the cost of service has been constantly reduced until today more than 90 per cent of the homes in Jacksonville enjoy the benefits of electric service and all of its industries use it in the operation of their respective businesses.

There are many private businesses, such as radio stores, selling various electric apparatus, and large manufacturing concerns that specialize in manufacturing the various appliances and other equipment that is used in the electrical industry. These firms make a livelihood for the owners as well as employing thousands of people. In Jacksonville there are a number of such privately operated stores that make a livelihood through this business in addition to the force of men employed by the Light and Power Company.

Maintenance Costly

It requires a large financial investment to make possible this service as well as a constant expenditure of money to maintain the equipment necessary to give instant service. Ample evidence of this type of expenditure was shown in the recent tornado. A large number of men was required in addition to the regular force employed and thousands of dollars were spent to restore this service quickly and to continue the work of placing the lines back into condition.

A History of Light

The whole history of civilization has been characterized by the desire of man for more and more light. Ages ago evil spirits became associated with darkness and light became sacred. Light has always been a symbol in the religions of the world. Man used pine torches, fat lamps, oil lamps, gas light and electric light as civilization progressed. Light during the age of man was gained in a crude way until Thomas Edison invented the incandescent lamp in 1879 after many years of tireless effort and discouragement. It was then that the electrical industry had its beginning.

A group of men who became interested through Mr. Edison saw the possibilities of this new source of furnishing light and began the building up of what is today one of the largest industries of our country. It was only through the tireless and persistent efforts of these individuals and others that this small industry continued to grow and expand to larger and larger fields of activity until today it has been so popularized and developed that it has become a necessity in the everyday life of the people of every city as well as the rural communities.

Illinois Power and Light Corporation

MODERN—Electric Cookery with the new Hotpoint Range is just as modern as electric light. It has overcome all of the dirt, heat, undependability, danger and drudgery of old-fashioned cookery.

FAST—Glowing red heat. Hotpoint's amazing new heating coil cooks as fast as food will cook.

ECONOMICAL—About 1,250,000 homes now enjoy Electric Cookery at a cost of less than a penny a meal per person (national average). Costs no more than less convenient methods.

CONVENIENT—No watching, waiting, basting or oven peeking. The range does all the tedious work.

SIMPLE—You don't have to learn all over again to cook this easy, better way. It is much more simple and decidedly easier.

CLEAN—No grimy kitchen walls. No blackened pots and pans to scour. Electric heat is clean as sunshine. Affords a marked saving in cleaning and decorating expense.

COOL—in surface cookery, utensils rest directly on the heating coil—none of the heat is wasted. The Hotpoint oven is thoroughly insulated to prevent dissipation of heat. When you turn the oven switch "on", temperature goes "up" in the oven, but not in the kitchen.

CERTAIN — Modern Electric Cookery with the new Hotpoint Automatic Range produces consistently better results. There is no "luck" in this method—it's scientifically accurate.

SAFE — Carefully insulated, the Electric Range is electrically safe and there are no matches or flames.

TIME-RELEASING — Automatic cookery requires no attention. The Timer - Clock turns the oven "on" and "off." You simply place the food in the oven and forget it until dinner time.

HEALTHFUL — "Waterless" Electric Cookery preserves the healthful juices and vitamins of all foods, and the cook works in a healthful atmosphere.

The Proof of the Pudding

IS IN THE EATING

The same is true when you compare Kleen-Maid Bread and examine it for its eating qualities. This nutritious loaf has a golden brown crust on the outside that is tender and soft with flavor. The inside appearance of Kleen-Maid bread is of a white close grained texture with a soft fluffy crumb. It is easily masticated and digested and is a bread that will satisfy everyone. The slices are cut uniform and smooth, that make delightful sandwiches as well as a rich brown toast.

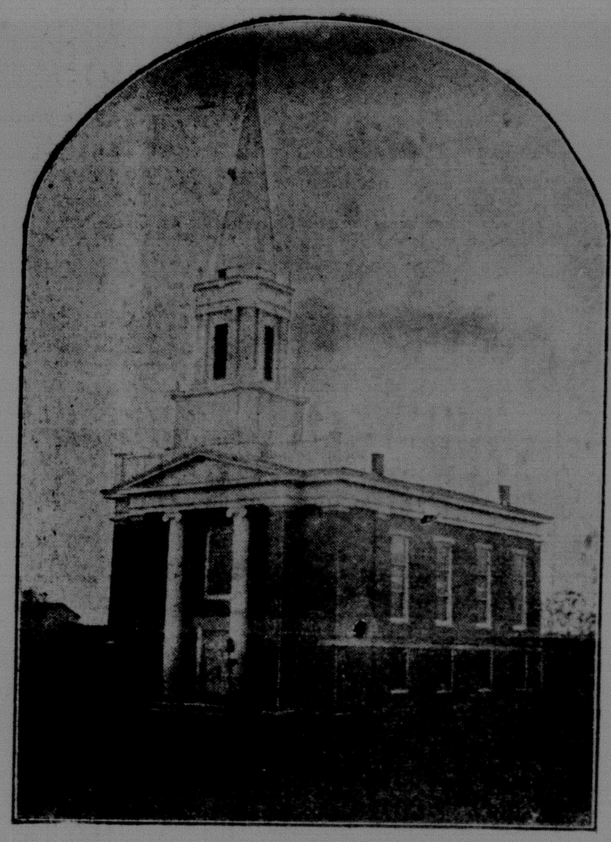

Kleen-Maid Bread is carefully baked with the utmost care, and under the most sanitary conditions.

JACKSONVILLE

A City of Churches

One of Jacksonville's Early Churches
FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
Built, 1847—Destroyed by Fire, 1861

Jacksonville is rich in church history. The high plane of spiritual life in the community, which these institutions of every denomination have cultivated through the generations, is a perpetual memorial to their service to man. This tribute to the churches of Jacksonville is an acknowledgement of the good they have done and will always do for the community.

There was a man once said, "Think or say what you wish about churches—about religion, it's a fact, proven beyond question, that a community or city without active churches, without religious life, is a backward, uninteresting and undesirable place to live—it's a place shunned particularly by families having children to raise." These words were spoken by a man of education, intelligence, experience but who, personally, was something of a free-thinker.

Active churches, a strong religious life, are a definite asset to any community. The reasons and advantages are too obvious to the thinking, analyzing mind, to need elaboration herein.

Jacksonville long has been known as a "City of Churches," active churches, with harmony and cooperation among their different memberships a marked characteristic; churches that extend a warm welcome to the stranger; churches that take an active part in the life of the city; churches that look after the needs of the people, regardless of affiliation; churches that deserve the strongest support that a community can give them.

ELECTRIC SERVICE VITAL TO CITY AND HOME

was inaugurated in 1885 and the city was furnished its service through a small local plant. At that time electricity had many active competitors in the form of gas light, oil lamps, and steam driven power units which operated individual industries. As the electric lamps became more efficient and economical than other forms of competitive service, the business grew rapidly and the service was extended to all parts of the city. As the business grew, the capacity of the local plant became limited and had to be enlarged from time to time. Finally the service became so depended upon for the operations of everyday life that it required a more stable and flexible service than could be supplied through a single plant. It was then that the transmission lines came into being. These lines supply service from large power plants through high voltage transmission lines from several sources and make it possible for large quantities of service to be supplied to any customer at a moment's notice.

Serving the City Today

Today Jacksonville is supplied by three transmission lines, any one of which has capacity to fill more than the entire requirements of the city. Thus it is possible for a customer to turn on any or all of his equipment at any hour of the day or night and receive perfect service or request any additional service. It is a service which the people have learned to accept without any consideration of the preparation and constant attention that must be given in order to make it possible for this service to be available at a moment's notice. Whether a person turns on a radio in the home or a large power motor at the factory, the service must be there at the instant service is desired.

And so the requirements of a community are met promptly, sometimes when the cost of the service demanded is actually many times more than the revenue realized from the service. It is in the capacity of a vital community service that the Illinois Power and Light Corporation occupies an important place in the civic and industrial life of Jacksonville and its trade territory.

"GIRL IN THE FAMILY"
BY BEATRICE BURTON

SYNOPSIS

Susan Broderick and her aunt, Lutie, who had seen more prosperous times, order a pillow at Hart's department store where the family had a charge account for years. They are summoned to the office of the manager, Mr. Dillon, who informs them the account has been discontinued as it had not been paid for five months. Susie and Lutie leave in embarrassment. Lutie goes home by trolley but Susan prefers to walk. En route the latter meets her fiance, Wallace Steffen, rising young banker. Susan and Wallace are distinctly different types; he is the sheltered, meticulous type while she is the kind who loves to walk in the rain and go without gloves in the winter. Susan realizes that, while her future life with Wallace will not be thrilling, it will be comfortable. Tender-hearted Susan shows little enthusiasm when Wallace plans to inspect a house which the present owners are forced to sell because of financial reverses. In her room, Susan reflects on her feelings toward Wallace. She is not certain she loves him. However, she feels she is engaged and everything is settled; besides, it would be a relief to get away from the drab, old house she shared with her father, Morris Broderick; Brother John, Uncle Worthy, his wife Edna, and Aunt Lutie. Years ago, their home had been the show place of the city.

CHAPTER V

The white marble clock was striking a single note for half past six as she closed the door of her bedroom and started down the stairs. Halfway down them was a landing large enough to accommodate a sofa and a large Chinese jardeniere filled with dusty cattails.

As she reached it she became aware of a low rumble of voices from the hall below. One of them was Uncle Worthy's deep bass and the other was a voice that she did not recognize. A pleasant man's voice.

"I came to ask about the room that's advertised in tonight's paper," it was saying as Susan stopped to listen.

"Oh, yes. Well, would you like to come in and look at it now?" she heard Uncle Worthy answer. Then there came the sound of the vestibule door closing and footsteps crossed the hall and started up the stairs.

Susan turned and flew back to the upper hall and down the back stairs. By the time she reached the downstairs hall her uncle and the strange man were upstairs. She could hear them talking, and the glass chandelier that hung from the ceiling tinkled faintly as they crossed the floor overhead—the floor of the room that had been Grandfather Broderick's bedroom during his lifetime.

She clapped one hand to her cheek in dismay as it flashed across her mind that Uncle Worthy was showing the room to the strange man with the idea of renting it to him if possible. It had been a "Rooms for Rent" advertisement that he had been looking for in the evening paper a half hour before!

For months he had joked in his heavy way about having to rent some of the rooms in the house if the Brodericks became any poorer, and Susan had laughed at him politely, as she always laughed when he joked about things. Not until that afternoon, in Mr. Dillon's office had she realized just how poor they all were. She knew, of course that there had been a great deal more money in the family a few years before. She could remember that long years ago her father had had an electric runabout in which he had driven to and from his office every day. She remembered a summer that the whole family had spent in Blowing Rock among the cool South Carolina mountains. One winter they had all gone to White Sulphur Springs, and in her childhood they had had a houseman named Albert, who had slept in a room in the carriage house and helped Anna, the cook, with the work of the house. There was only Anna now.

• • •

Aunt Edna and Lutie were sitting in the parlor when she opened the door and burst in upon them. Lutie's eyes looked as if she had been crying, but Aunt Edna, as placid as usual, was sitting in her big chair embroidering parrots in bright-colored wool on a gray linen shoe bag just where she had been sitting all afternoon. In her black clothes she struck Susan, somehow, as a rock over which storms might roar and pass, leaving no mark, no sign. Her eyes, when she glanced up at the opening of the door, were like round brown pennies. Eyes that never let anyone see what thoughts were going on behind them.

"What on earth are we doing?" Susan asked her, standing with her back against the closed door. "Renting a room in this house to someone?"

She shook her head as she spoke. It seemed impossible that that was what they were doing. Renting rooms to strangers was something that other people did, but the Brodericks never! And Grandfather Broderick's room, that was always kept just as it always had been,

"What on earth are we doing?" Susan asked. "Renting a room in this house to someone?"

with his silver brushes and shaving mug set out on the dresser, his Bible on the bedside table, his framed oil painting of Grandmother Broderick hanging above the bed, his armchair with its lace doilies standing beside the window! It seemed dreadful to Susan that a stranger would come to live in that room. Into the house that he had built with such pride.

"Yes, we're going to try to rent your grandfather's room," said Aunt Edna. "Your uncle telephoned the ad to the newspaper this morning about eleven, and here is someone to answer it in less than eight hours! That's really getting results, isn't it?"

She was Uncle Worthy's wife, and the only member of the family who was not a Broderick by birth. But she looked enough like her husband and Lutie to be their sister. She had the same short thickset figure, the same dark complexion, the same sort of Roman nose and square chin, and she was so stout that she no longer cared to know how much she weighed.

Susan picked up the evening paper that lay on the carpet at her feet and began to search for the advertisement, sitting on the very edge of a chair near the fireplace. All the chairs in the room were upholstered alike, in garnet-colored velvet, and their cushioned seats were flattened and threadbare as if they had been sat in too many years.

"Did you see the man who came to look at the room, Susan?" Lutie asked suddenly.

"No, I just heard his voice, Lutie. It was an awfully nice one. I noticed it particularly."

Aunt Edna's massive head gave a jerk. "Susan, I want to say just one thing to you about this—this paying guest," she said. "We'll have to have him here—that is, we will if he takes the room—but we certainly won't have to take him into the bosom of the family! Whether he is good looking or has a nice voice is of no interest to us. You understand?"

Susan nodded her head slowly. She had found her uncle's advertisement at the top of a "Rooms For Rent" column, and she read it, feeling rather sick.

"'Private entrance'," she read aloud. "Why, where is there a private entrance in this house?—Unless you'd call the side door a private entrance—"

"Exactly!" said Aunt Edna. "We thought perhaps a stranger in the house would rather use the side entrance."

She cleared her throat. "You see, we don't know what sort of person will take the room. But in all probability it will be someone who works in one of the factories near here, and we certainly don't want that sort of person running up and down the front hall in greasy overalls! Even if he uses the side door, it's going to be hard on us to have an outsider here."

It was going to be hard on the stranger, too, whoever he was, thought Susan. They would all treat him as if he had no real right to be in the house. They would probably ignore him, as if he weren't there at all, except for taking care of his room. She knew them!

They had a great deal of what they called "family pride" and "family feeling." Center Street had deteriorated, the wealthy families had moved away, and only the Brodericks had stayed behind. But they had kept in touch with their early neighbors and they held themselves far above the new people who lived all around them now in the little houses and apartment-buildings that had sprung up as the neighborhood went down. Young John Broderick, who had the gift of frankness, said that they were all dyed-in-the-wool snobs.

Y. M. C. A. AIDS YOUTHS HERE REPORTS SHOW

Joint Drive For Four Agencies to Start October 16

One of the organizations to be benefitted by the joint drive to be given in Jacksonville for four agencies here is the Y. M. C. A. Others are the Salvation Army, the Boy Scouts and the Red Cross. This drive is to start in the city October 16 for the purpose of raising funds for the support of these agencies.

That the Y. M. C. A. in Jacksonville is alive to present day needs and conditions is brought out by a comparison of the work it is doing with young people and the recent statements by James E. Maxwell, executive secretary of the Federal Transient Bureau of Springfield. In speaking before the Men's Federated Church Club recently, Mr. Maxwell stated that the great need of America today is to keep its young people active and contented at home, that they may be kept from joining the great throng of transient youth, young women as well as young men, who, because homes and some communities have not been made attractive enough, are wandering over the country in search of adventure, and are, many of them, developing into the professional hobo of a few years hence, adverse to laboring for a living, and becoming proponents of communism and other anti-social doctrine.

In addition to the 472 Jacksonville boys under 18 years of age who last year were members of the various clubs and groups which are a part of the Y. program, the local Y. M. C. A. last year had 653 men and 226 girls and women as members of its various activities, these figures not including the thousands of persons who came as spectators at the various league games, neighborhood gatherings, etc.

The activities for young people varied from discussion clubs for the consideration of young people's problems, thru the basket ball, volley ball and base ball leagues, to mixed social programs for young men and young women.

For many weeks last winter the Association made use of the school rooms and gymnasiums for its activities, much of the time using the David Prince gymnasium, Jefferson school gymnasium and the Washington school gymnasium many nights each week.

MAUVAISTERRE LAKE FILLS UP AFTER RAINFALL

City Water Supply Beyond Danger Following Two Inches of Rain

More than two inches of rain falling in this community since Thursday night have sent the city water supply upward and well beyond the danger points. The rain brought a rise of 20 inches in the level of Lake Mauvaisterre, the greatest that has been recorded in more than a year. The water was only ten inches below the spillway Saturday.

The gauge at the city pumping plant showed 2.15 inches of rain for the week. At the weather station at Norbury Sanitarium the gauge showed a rainfall of 1.58 inches during Friday night. The fall for the 24 hours ending Friday evening and including the heavy rain Friday afternoon was 0.54 of an inch, making a total of 2.12 inches for the two nights and a day of rain.

The bulk of the rain fell Friday and Friday night. It was the heaviest and steadiest downpour this city has had for sometime. Streets were like small rivers, and those who had to walk to their homes Friday evening had to ford the torrents. They also were thoroly soaked and had to hunt dry clothing.

The city water supply is now safe for the winter, in the opinion of George Stoldt, superintendent of the pumping plant. Heretofore the gains in the lake level have been small, not enough to assure the city of a plentiful supply in case of a winter drouth. But the rain the past two days has turned the trick, and there is no longer need for anxiety.

The lakes are now to a point where they will be fed by the incoming streams. The ground is soaked and the streams are expected to run steadily for a time, which will keep the lake level high and perhaps raise it somewhat higher.
